LONDON, June 21.—The queen is now in London.

The early hours were enlivened by the pealing of bells, and in the morning breeze everywhere floated the royal standard. The first point of interest in the day's proceedings was Windsor, where by 6 o'clock the short route leading from the castle to the Great Western railway station was lined by a mass of people gathered to see the queen start. Flags and flowers were everywhere, and the order of the day, "God save the queen," appeared on houses and banners without end. The statue of the queen near the castle was decorated and gorgeously canopied in the Renaissance style and tall Venetian masts with their fluttering pennons lined both sides of the route. At 11 o'clock the queen left the castle. The railway station was beautifully decorated in bloom and gold, flowers in blue, and tall, artistic pillars. The queen was received by the directors of the railway. "The queen's train," used for the first time today, was drawn up close to the entrance door. The magnificent engine "Queen Empress," beautifully painted and picked out with gold leaf, carried the royal arms emblazoned in gold and colors in front and royal heraldic devices over the splashboards of the diving wheels. The train was composed of six carriages built on the American corridor system and connected by the rubber covered passages so common in the states. The queen's carriage was a magnificent affair and superbly furnished.

THE PRINCE CONSORT, DECEASED.

The start for London was made at 11:15 a. m., and for almost the entire distance the train passed between scattered groups of loyal people. Every station of the Great Western between Windsor and Paddington had been decorated. The railway employees everywhere stood at the salute, while the platforms were crowded with cheering people.

Paddington station (London) was reached at 11:55. Here the immense 'arminas had been transformed on the side into a hall of resplendent crimson, garlanded with fringes of gold, fragrant with the odors of countless blossoms, walled on either side by parterres of people. The state carriages from Buckingham palace were at the end of the covered way. As soon as the queen had taken her seat the life guards drew up in front and rear as a guard of cheers proclaimed to waiting thousands that she had arrived. Before starting a royal address was presented by the Rev. Walter Abbott, vicar of Paddington, and chairman of the Paddington vestry, who was accompanied by the two members of parliament for Paddington. The passage-way to Praed street was lined by the Eighteenth Middlesex regiment, which also provided the guard of honor. The route to Buckingham palace was via Oxford and Cambridge Terrace, Grand Junction roads and Edgware road to Marble arch, thence by Hyde park and Constitution hill. Over the distance, excepting the portion of Great park, every house in the background of the picture was superbly decorated, flags, flowers, banners and festoons, and endless mottoes on the order of the day: "God save the queen." At Edgware road a handsome triumphal arch was erected by the Paddington authorities and another had been put up by the Marylebone vestry near the Marble arch.

Throughout the route was tenanted by an immense assemblage. Every window had its occupants, every roof its sightseers, every available space in the street and square, sidewalk and gardens, the paths and chairs and even the trees and railings of the parks were black with loyal humanity. The queen drove slowly to gratify her people. Her face everywhere loosened the voice of the multitude. In unrestrained strength of loyalty and affection broke forth. Volleys of cheers rose clearly above the acclamation. Hats were thrown in the air, handkerchiefs waved in welcome, everyone vied with his neighbor in active demonstration of loyalty and delight.

Nearing Piccadilly the queen saw for the first time the conspicuous evidence of what had been prepared for the morrow. The grim, gray walls of Apley House were gone in a profusion of decoration, the grandstand at the side and front of it garlanded with flowers, flags and mottoes, stood crowded with some of the queen's nobility, no less exuberant in their welcome than that from the packed windows and roof of St. George's hospital and the stands in front, full of the queen's commoners.

Through Burton's gate the queen passed on to the garden entrance of Buckingham palace, always between the living lanes of her subjects, always the object of endless homage and salutes of cheers which continued until the gates had shut the queen from view.

This afternoon in the throneroom of Buckingham palace her majesty received the imperial and royal envoys. The queen at 9 o'clock tonight will entertain at dinner 90 of her most distinguished guests.

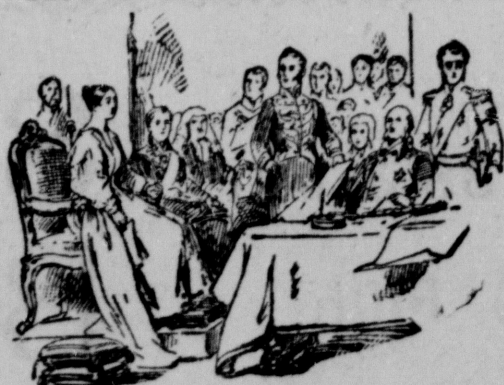

After dinner the queen will proceed to the Grand saloon to receive the diplomatic corps and some of the more distinguished of the special guests.

Queen Victoria began the celebration of her jubilee Sunday as was befitting her entire career, before the altar of her faith. Throughout London, the United Kingdom and the empire, in every cathedral, church or chapel of the established church of England was held services similar to those at St. George's chapel, Windsor, where her majesty paid her devotions, and offered solemn thanks to God.

Her majesty sat in the chair of state immediately in front of the communion rail and just beside the brass plate whose inscription designates the spot which was the temporary place of interment of the Prince Consort.

The ladies and gentlemen who are the grand officers of the queen's household entered first, followed by the military knights of Windsor in full costume of cock hats and scarlet coats.

The Duke of Devonshire and Lord

QUEEN'S FIRST STATE CARNIVAL.

Rosebury gathered their stalls as Knights of the Garter. The rest of the church was empty, the seats of the royal family being near the queen.

The Dean of Windsor, wearing the insignia of chaplain of the Order of the Garter, officiated, assisted by the lord bishop of Barry and several canons.

Punctually at 11 o'clock, amid the soft strains of an organ voluntary, the queen arrived from the cloisters at the entrance. Assisted by her Indian attendant, she walked slowly to the chair of state, the congregation standing. She was dressed all in black, except for a white tuft in her bonnet. Empress Frederick of Germany, attired in deep black, took the seat at the right of the queen, while the Duke of Connaught, wearing the Windsor uniform, seated himself at her left. The others grouped closely behind and looked very much like a simple family of worshippers. Among them were the Duchess of Connaught, Prince Henry of Prussia and Princess Christian, with their children, Princess Henry of Battenberg, the Grand Duke Sergius and the Grand Duchess Sergius.

Ordinary morning prayers began with a short exhortation from Timothy and the suffrages after the creed contained special sentences. Special prayers were also said and a special hymn rendered.

The service lasted 40 minutes, the queen remaining seated throughout and following closely the special prayers and hymn.

At the end there was a pause. The queen, with bowed head, continued in silent prayer. Then followed a touching scene, which will ever linger in the memory of those who witnessed it. Summoning Empress Frederick, who bowed low at her side, the queen kissed her on both cheeks. The Duke of Connaught and other members of the family followed, receiving on bended knees a similar token of affection. In many cases the recipient was kissed several times.

The queen was profoundly moved, and tears rolled down her cheeks. At last and evidently with great reluctance she beckoned her Indian attendant, and leaning on her arm passed slowly out of the chapel, the entire congregation standing, the soft light falling through the multi-colored windows and the exquisite strains of the organ rising and swelling beneath the Gothic bannered roof. It was a scene never to be forgotten and thrilled all present with strong emotion.

There were two services at St. Paul's cathedral. Immense crowds filled the approaches to the cathedral at the morning service, anxious to catch a glimpse of the royalties and distinguished personages who were announced, including all the Protestant envoys. The foreign envoys were present. Whitelaw Reid, with Ambassador Hay and Mrs. Hay, General Nelson A. Miles, Ogden Mills, Creighton Webb, Captain Maus and Captain Macauley came in royal carriages.

Under the come and behind the richly crimsoned royal pews were the peers and peeresses in full robes, the foreign envoys and five colonial premiers with their families, Sir Richard Webster, the attorney general, and 200 queen's counsel in their wigs and gowns.

The members of the royal family arrived punctually. Among them was the Prince and Princess of Wales, the Duke and Duchess of York, the Duke of Cambridge, the Duke and Duchess of Saxe-Coburg Gotha, Prince Charles of Denmark and Princess Charles, Prince Albert of Prussia, Grand Duke and Duchess of Hesse, Grand Duke Cecil of Russia, Prince Waldemar of Denmark, Prince Eugene of Sweden, the Grand Duke of Luxembourg and the Prince and Princess Frederick Charles of Hesse.

THE PRINCE OF WALES.

Holy communion was celebrated and the sermon was preached by the lord bishop of London, who touched upon many of the events in the reign of Victoria and eloquently extolled her piety, charity and motherly love for the people.

The members of the commons, who in accordance with a special resolution adopted last Thursday, attended the services at St. Margaret's, assembled in the house about 10:30. Shortly before 11, William Court Guiley, the speaker, appeared in his robes of office. The procession was then formed, the sergeant-at-arms carrying the "bauble" of Cromwell and leading off, followed by the speaker with his trainbearers, the chaplain of the house, Rev. Canon Wilberforce, D. D., and the ministers of the crown, who are members of the house of commons. After them came several ex-ministers and then members of all parties, excepting the Irish, who had formally decided not to take part officially in the celebration. The principal clerks of the house closed the procession.

On leaving Westminster hall the line of march to the tower door of St. Margaret's was guarded by the Queen's Own Westminster rifles, under Colonel Sir Howard Vincent. Rev. Canon Eyton, the rector, officiated, and the sermon was preached by Dr. Farrar, dean of Canterbury and former rector of St. Margaret's, whose eloquent words will duly appear on the journals of the house, of which it is a custom to make them a part.

High mass at the Brompton oratory was made the occasion of a thanksgiving for the queen's jubilee on the part of her Roman Catholic subjects, a special Te Deum being sung. At the close of mass Cardinal Vaughan read a jubilee pastoral, eloquently reviewing the history of the queen's reign and commending her virtues, after which he extended the Te Deum and gave the pontifical blessing.

All the envoys from Catholic countries were present, in full uniform, except the Prince and Princess of Naples, who were absent owing to the presence of the papal envoy. In his sermon Cardinal Vaughan dwelt upon the glory of the queen's reign as peculiarly grateful to the Roman Catholics of the empire, because it had always been consistent with the extension of freedom of conscience of her Roman Catholic subjects.

In the afternoon and evening there were special accession day services at Westminster Abbey and St. Paul's cathedral.

At St. George's chapel, Windsor, in the afternoon a special musical service was held, at which most of the members of the royal family were present.

Several of the leading pulpits of the city were occupied by American preachers, all of whom alluded in the most feeling terms to the queen's life

EDITOR BRUNOT'S NICE JOB.

Appointed Consul to St. Etienne, France. Minister Woodford Confirmed.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—The senate has confirmed the nomination of Stewart L. Woodford of New York, to be minister to Spain.

The president sent the following nominations to the senate:

Charles L. Cole of Pennsylvania, to be consul general at Dresden, Saxony; Hilary S. Brunot of Pennsylvania, to be consul at St. Etienne, France; Albert B. White of West Virginia, to be collector of internal revenue for the district of West Virginia.

The Dresden consul generalship pays a salary of $3,000 a year. The consulship at St. Etienne, France, pays $2,000 a year, with a few hundred additional in fees.

Charles L. Cole was born in Allegheny City and has lived there all his life. His first important entrance into business was in 1861, when he accepted a clerkship in the office of the freight department of the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railroad company. When the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago was leased by the Pennsylvania company he continued in the business, and in 1871 was promoted to assistant general freight agent. In this capacity he remained until 1889, when he was advanced to general freight agent, where he remained until his resignation last April, having been continuously in the service of the company for 36 years. He had been a director in the Iron City National bank of Pittsburgh for about 15 years, and six years ago, upon the death of James Herdman, was made vice president. He is also a member of the board of directors of the Dollar Savings bank of Pittsburgh and one of the vice presidents.

Hilary S. Brunot, proprietor of The Greensburg Press, is a native of Pennsylvania. He was born near Greensburg about 45 years ago, and has lived there for over 22 years. On all matters relating to the coal, iron, steel and glass industries he is an authority, and for this qualification chiefly has he been given the appointment as consul to St. Etienne.

Called Out the Militia.

SOUTH FRAMINGHAM, Mass., June 21.—Four drunken Italian laborers participated in a savage fight here. Officers Robert Trace and David Bastion tried to arrest one of the ring leaders, but all the Italians set upon them, and Officer Bastion was clubbed with a beer bottle, his skull being fractured. The militia was called out and arrested three of them.

HANNA NOW AT HOME.

Will Go to Toledo Convention Tomorrow.

THE MCKISSON MEN DOWNED.

A Number of County Conventions, Besides Cuyahoga, Endorsed the National Chairman For the Senate—Democrats Named State Delegates.

CLEVELAND, June 21.—Senator Hanna has arrived home. He will go to Toledo tomorrow to attend the state convention of the Republicans. When asked what he thought of the prospects for the ratification of the Hawaiian treaty, Mr. Hanna said:

"The sentiment in the senate is overwhelmingly in favor of the treaty, but its discussion at this session is doubtful owing to the fact that there is a disposition on the part of congress to adjourn when the tariff measure is adopted. There will probably be some opposition to the treaty that would prolong the session if it were taken up, and so I consider it unlikely."

In one of the fiercest fights which ever was waged in a Republican convention in this city, the McKisson machine went down to defeat in the county convention. It was a Hanna victory from the start.

COLUMBUS, June 21.—In Hardin county the anti-Hanna men won.

LIMA, June 21.—The Hanna faction, which bolted the decision of the central committee that the delegates to the state convention be selected by them, held their convention and selected another list and a new committee.

DAYTON, June 21.—At the Republican county convention resolutions were passed endorsing McKinley's Hawaiian policy and endorsing Foraker, Hanna and Kurtz.

STREUBERVILLE, June 21.—After a stormy scene the Republican county convention chose J. J. Gill chairman over Dr. R. McLaughlin the Forakerite. The resolutions adopted renew devotion to the principles of the Republican party, endorse the administration, Danford, Foraker and Hanna, declare in favor of Cuban liberty, Hawaiian annexation and endorse Bushnell for renomination.

NEWARK, June 21.—Hanna and McKinley were endorsed. L. D. Bonebrake of Mt. Vernon recommended for state school commissioner, and William Hahn of Zanesville for board of public works. For representative S. E. Siegfried, a student at the Denison university, was nominated, and declared for Hanna.

MT. VERNON, June 21.—At the Republican convention delegates were instructed for Bushnell and Bonebrake, and the re-election of Hanna to the senate was endorsed.

HAMILTON, June 21.—The Republican county central committee selected delegates to the state convention, instructed to support Governor Bushnell for renomination. Resolutions were passed endorsing President McKinley and the two Ohio senators, and concluding with an endorsement of Mark Hanna for senator.

ELYRIA, O., June 21.—Lorain county Republicans endorsed McKinley. Senators Hanna and Foraker and Governor Bushnell.

TROY, O., June 21.—The Republicans of Miami endorsed Bushnell, Foraker and Hanna.

DEFIANCE, June 21.—Defiance county Democrats instructed their delegates for John W. Winn of this county for governor.

YOUNGSTOWN, June 21.—Vote at the Democratic county primary election was light. There are six offices to be filled, two representatives, commissioner, infirmity director, surveyor and coroner, and as yet there are but two candidates. The convention will be held next Saturday.

ATHENS, June 21.—The Athens county Democrats nominated a county ticket and unanimously endorsed the candidacy of Hon. Hugh Gormley for state senator and C. V. Harris for re-election as state central committeeman. Senator George Falloon (Republican) was called upon for a speech and attacked Hanna and Grosvenor.

CLEVELAND, June 21.—Cuyahoga county's delegation in the Ohio Democratic convention will be unpledged.

ZANESVILLE, O., June 21.—The Democratic convention delegates go unattached.

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., June 21.—A. W. Patrick was endorsed for governor by Tuscarawas Democrats.

WAVERLY, O., June 21.—Pike county Democrats will support Van Meter for governor.

MT. VERNON, June 21.—Knox county Democrats will fuse with the Populists. MT. GILEAD, June 21.—Morrow county Democrats endorsed Hon. John Degolley for attorney general.

MASSILLON, O., June 21.—Two causes have been held by the local Democrats, and two sets of delegates to the Stark county convention and central committeemen have been selected.

IRONTON, O., June 21.—The Democratic convention here instructed for Chapman for governor.

Severe Storms Reported.

KNONVILLE, June 21.—Reports from upper east Tennessee, Southern Virginia and Western North Carolina indicate severe storms.

LIMA, June 21.—The Hanna faction, which bolted the decision of the central committee that the delegates to the state convention be selected by them, held their convention and selected another list and a new committee.

DAYTON, June 21.—At the Republican county convention resolutions were passed endorsing McKinley's Hawaiian policy and endorsing Foraker, Hanna and Kurtz.

STUBENVILLE, June 21.—After a stormy scene the Republican county convention chose J. J. Gill chairman over Dr. R. McLaughlin the Forakerite. The resolutions adopted renew devotion to the principles of the Republican party, endorse the administration, Danford, Foraker and Hanna, declare in favor of Cuban liberty, Hawaiian annexation and endorse Bushnell for renomination.

NEWARK, June 21.—Hanna and McKinley were endorsed. L. D. Bonebrake of Mt. Vernon recommended for state school commissioner, and William Hahn of Zanesville for board of public works. For representative S. E. Siegfried, a student at the Denison university, was nominated, and declared for Hanna.

MT. VERNON, June 21.—At the Republican convention delegates were instructed for Bushnell and Bonebrake, and the re-election of Hanna to the senate was endorsed.

HAMILTON, June 21.—The Republican county central committee selected delegates to the state convention, instructed to support Governor Bushnell for renomination. Resolutions were passed endorsing President McKinley and the two Ohio senators, and concluding with an endorsement of Mark Hanna for senator.

ELYRIA, O., June 21.—Lorain county Republicans endorsed McKinley, Senators Hanna and Foraker and Governor Bushnell.

TROY, O., June 21.—The Republicans of Miami endorsed Bushnell, Foraker and Hanna.

DEFIANCE, June 21.—Defiance county Democrats instructed their delegates for John W. Winn of this county for governor.

YOUNGSTOWN, June 21.—Vote at the Democratic county primary election was light. There are six offices to be filled, two representatives, commissioner, infirmity director, surveyor and coroner, and as yet there are but two candidates. The convention will be held next Saturday.

ATHENS, June 21.—The Athens county Democrats nominated a county ticket and unanimously endorsed the candidacy of Hon. Hugh Gormley for state senator and C. V. Harris for re-election as state central committeeman. Senator George Falloon (Republican) was called upon for a speech and attacked Hanna and Grosvenor.

CLEVELAND, June 21.—Cuyahoga county's delegation in the Ohio Democratic convention will be unpledged.

ZANESVILLE, O., June 21.—The Democratic convention delegates go un instructed.

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., June 21.—A. W. Patrick was endorsed for governor by Tuscarawas Democrats.

WAVERLY, O., June 21.—Pike county Democrats will support Van Meter for governor.

MT. VERNON, June 21.—Knox county Democrats will fuse with the Populists. Mr. GILEAD, June 21.—Morrow county Democrats endorsed Hon. John Degolley for attorney general.

MASSILLON, O., June 21.—Two causes have been held by the local Democrats, and two sets of delegates to the Stark county convention and central committeemen have been selected.

IRONTON, O., June 21.—The Democratic convention here instructed for Chapman for governor.

Severe Storms Reported.

KNONVILLE, June 21.—Reports from upper east Tennessee, Southern Virginia and Western North Carolina indicate severe storms.

HARD TO HARMONIZE.

Differences Among the Republicans Worrying the Leaders.

WOOL MEN STILL OBDDURATE.

They and the Tobacco Men Refuse to Be Placated—Democrats Will Enforce the Withdrawal of the Internal Revenue Feature—The End In Sight.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—The Republican senators in charge of the tariff bill begin to feel that the end almost is in sight. They do not hope to conclude the consideration of the bill by the close of the present week, but they expect by that time to be able to say when they can complete the work.

As a matter of fact, the difficulty of adjusting differences in their own party is causing the managers more perplexity at present than is the open opposition to the bill in the senate. It has been found almost impossible to harmonize the contending forces among Republicans on the tobacco and wool schedules.

There are also numerous articles on the free list and in the "sundry" schedule which will arouse differences of opinion, and if the Republicans do not withdraw the internal revenue features of the bill there will be a sharp clash with the Democrats. They are practically decided, however, to retreat from these provisions. It is also practically determined that the house provision in regard to Hawaiian sugar will be continued pending the disposition of the Hawaiian annexation treaty.

For the rest, the question of reciprocity and the problem presented by the trusts in connection with the tariff are still undetermined by the Republicans themselves, but there is no doubt that there will be more or less general debate upon any propositions agreed to when presented in the senate.

Same Old House Program.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—The program in the house will be the same, a during past weeks. There will be two sessions, one on Monday and another on Thursday. It is probable that the committee on rules will bring in a special order today for the consideration of the bill appropriating money to repair the drydock at the Brooklyn navyyard and the bill will no doubt be passed.

Murdered by a Negro.

EVERGREEN, Ala., June 21.—Richard Rumbly, 70 years of age, a prominent farmer of Monroe county, while resisting an attempt at robbery, was murdered by George Bradley, a negro. Armed men are searching for Bradley.

A Centenarian Dead.

TORONTO, O., June 21.—Mrs. Letitia Walker died last night at her home, three miles from Toronto, from old age. She was Jefferson county's oldest inhabitant. Had she lived until August next she would have been 102 years old.

Blast Furnace Shut Down.

BELLAIRE, O., June 21.—The blast furnace of the Bellaire steel plant shut down for an indefinite period. About 250 employees are out of work. A 15 per cent reduction will be made when the works are started again.

Killed by a Baseball.

SARATOGA, N. Y., June 21.—Austin Smith, aged 18, of Sandy Hill, has been killed while playing baseball. He was hit by a pitched ball.

A VERY POOR GAME

Was the One Played Saturday Afternoon.

IT LASTED BUT SIX INNINGS

They Allegheny Athletics Do Not Deserve the Name of Ball Players—Very Few Redeeming Features—Other Sporting Topics.

The Three A baseball team Saturday afternoon gave the poorest exhibition of ball playing ever seen in the city, and were defeated by the home club, 14 to 5, with the greatest of ease. In the first inning the visitors made six errors, and with but few exceptions, played like school boys. Montgomery won the crowd early in the game with a magnificent throw from deep right to the home plate, catching his man several feet from the plate. Only six innings were played, as the spectators had become thoroughly tired of the game. The score:

Notes.

The game was very poor but the work of Montgomery was somewhat of a redeeming feature.

The Phoenix and Young Mens Christian association teams will cross bats Wednesday afternoon at Rock Spring.

A large number of Pittsburg wheelmen yesterday rode to this city.

The Tombstones have organized for the season and would like to hear from all amateur teams in the city.

The East Liverpool Potters and Iron Workers are this afternoon playing ball at Rock Spring.

G. Y. Travis has decided to not accept the management of the East Liverpool baseball team.

John Hester will arrive home from Pittsburg college, tomorrow. He has been playing third base for the college team.

WILL MOVE

One Section of Shanty Boat town Prepared to Go.

There is going to be a general moving in Shanty town in the rear of the Cleveland & Pittsburg depot, as there are several new buildings about to be located in the city and the excavation is being hauled to that place. This morning several of the boat owners complained to the drivers about them filling the flat up so fast and requested them to stop it, but this had no weight on the men and the work of dumping still progresses. Most of the boats will tie to the Virginia shore within the next few weeks.

THE RIVER.

A Good Stage of Water Is Expected.

Local pleasure boats did a good business last evening, although the weather toward evening was somewhat cool. Nothing went down the river in the way of merchandise, but the Ben Hur, Kanawha and Keystone State passed up with very good trips. The John Moren also passed up.

Marks now show six feet and rising.

A New Crossing.

A number of men were put to work yesterday morning by the Cleveland & Pittsburg railroad putting a new crossing in at the lower end of Second street. The crossing was made especially for that place, and is an improvement that has been long needed.

WELLSVILLE.

AN ELOQUENT SERMON

Delivered Last Evening by Rev. Stephenson.

IT HAD THE PROPER RING

"What Shall We Do With the Boys and Girls," Was the Subject Discussed, and the Deplorable State of Affairs in This City Was Condemned.

Rev. C. W. Stephenson, of the Methodist Protestant church, in his morning theme yesterday: "What shall we do with the boys and girls?" spoke on a timely topic. The reverend followed the rearing of the child from early youth, showing to parents the unceasing care that should be maintained over their offspring until the years of accountability had been reached. He called attention to the deplorable condition of morals existing in Wellsville; opening the eyes of the people to these trysting places of evil and unseemly conduct, and too much perhaps that the average churchgoer would have no idea a minister was cognizant of; but Reverend Stephenson spoke plainly, and with a religious and consistent zeal that told upon his hearers. These evils are staring Christians in the face; are growing more abhorrent year after year, and the reverend's advice for the care and training of the child of the future was a most practical and a thoroughly Christian view of matters so prone to the weakness of the human heart. Wellsville needs more of just such sermons.

The News of Wellsville.

Ed Gibbons, a former Wellsville boy, and fireman on the Cleveland & Pittsburgh, is now located at Walla Walla, Wash.

Elmer Sine, of Center street, moved his family to Cleveland today, where he will take a daylight job on shifter as fireman.

A case of instruments belonging to some M. D., and possibly stolen, was found in the West End, last week, and are now at a business house waiting identification.

Rev. W. E. Flemmons, of Mercer, Pa., filled the Presbyterian pulpit morning and evening yesterday.

John Dennis captured a three foot copperhead snake, Saturday, and has the same on exhibition at his restaurant.

There was a break in the water main in the interior of the rolling mill yard, yesterday, which necessitated repairing and the stoppage of work until the same was completed.

The upper Cleveland and Pittsburgh depot will be a thing of beauty when the repairs now in progress are completed.

Miss Emma Taggart, of Toronto, was visiting friends here Saturday.

Mrs. Andrew Watson left Saturday evening for Avalon, Pa., called by the serious illness of a young son of her daughter, Mrs. Daniel Smith. The little one is not expected to recover.

An old fellow from the West End, who gloriously served his country, came up town one evening and sat down between Jabby Geisse and Officer Morgan near Third street. After the officer had left he happened to look for his money and thought it was missing, $31 in amount. He openly accused officer Morgan of taking it, but a later search revealed the missing bills in his watch pocket.

The old lady, who lately came to Wellsville from East Liverpool, and after various attempts at soliciting washing to earn a living was, in a column and half article, accused of running a "dark mystery" on Fourteenth street after she had left, is no doubt a resident of East Liverpool again, as her moving was hauled there, the moving consisting of but a few meagre articles of furniture.

Why She Liked Hypnotism.

A young woman from Washington has discovered a practical use for hypnotism and declares that at last she sees its value. She was visiting a young artist, who, with her chaperon, observes all the proprieties, in a studio up town in New York city. The Washington young woman was called on by her physician, who happens to be skilled in the ways and wiles of hypnotism. The chaperon was eager, as many women seem to be, to be hypnotized when the conversation turned on that subject and the doctor's skill with the art.

The doctor was a trifle chary about showing his powers, but the two younger women begged him to gratify the elder woman's curiosity. The chaperon smiled to herself and bubbled with delight when the doctor finally consented to experiment on her. In 15 minutes it was the turn of the two girls to bubble with satisfaction. Under the doctor's persuasive power the chaperon was lost to the world and all but the M. D.'s power.

"At last!" exclaimed the Washington girl. "Here at last is a practical use for hypnotism. Anything that can put a chaperon to sleep is worth having about. Teach me, oh, doctor!"—New York World.

WELLSVILLE.

AN ELOQUENT SERMON

Delivered Last Evening by Rev. Stephenson.

IT HAD THE PROPER RING

"What Shall We Do With the Boys and Girls," Was the Subject Discussed, and the Deplorable State of Affairs in This City Was Condemned.

Rev. C. W. Stephenson, of the Methodist Protestant church, in his morning theme yesterday: "What shall we do with the boys and girls?" spoke on a timely topic. The reverend followed the rearing of the child from early youth, showing to parents the unceasing care that should be maintained over their offspring until the years of accountability had been reached. He called attention to the deplorable condition of morals existing in Wellsville; opening the eyes of the people to these trysting places of evil and unseemly conduct, and too much perhaps that the average churchgoer would have no idea a minister was cognizant of; but Reverend Stephenson spoke plainly, and with a religious and consistent zeal that told upon his hearers. These evils are staring Christians in the face; are growing more abhorrent year after year, and the reverend's advice for the care and training of the child of the future was a most practical and a thoroughly Christian view of matters so prone to the weakness of the human heart. Wellsville needs more of just such sermons.

The News of Wellsville.

Ed Gibbons, a former Wellsville boy, and fireman on the Cleveland & Pittsburgh, is now located at Walla Walla, Wash.

DOCTOR EYMAN SCORES A POINT

Does Not Think Robison Is Insane.

NO INDICATIONS FIRST TIME

Entirely Too Many Movements
the Next Time.

HE WAS QUESTIONED CLOSELY

The Second Week of the Murder Trial Began With the Testimony of an Eminent Specialist—His Opinions Do Not Agree With All That Other Doctors Have Said, Nor Does He Believe That All Writers on the Subject of Insanity Are Infallible—A Vigorous Cross-Examination Failed to Shake His Testimony. The Argument Began This Afternoon. Mr. Potts the First Speaker.

LISBON, June 21.—[Special]—The second week of the Robison murder trial began with everybody wondering how long it would last. No one expected a sensation, and no one believed it would end in a manner more tragic than many another murder trial has ended. It was generally conceded about the court house this morning that the testimony would all be in before the noon adjournment, and the attorneys will begin their arguments early in the afternoon.

Interest centered on Doctor Eyman, superintendent of the Newburg asylum. He it was for whom the trial was postponed last Friday; but he did not make postponement necessary a second time. Although he was not needed until this morning, he drove to town from Leetonia last evening, and was soon afterwards closeted in his room at the Hostetter House with Prosecutor Speaker. He is not a big man, that is up and down, but his well shaped head and clear eyes show that he knows things and probably knows them well.

When Robison was brought into court by Deputy Bick, he took his seat with the same mechanical stare that has characterized his appearance since the first day. He had been shaved, and his hair was neatly combed. He had nothing to say, and after carefully putting his hat under the chair, looked straight to the front. The fact that he has slept but little since Friday was clearly shown in his face, for his manner was nervous. After Bailiff Connell had called the roll, and every juror had answered to his name, Doctor Eyman was called to the stand, and said:

"I am superintendent of the Cleveland State hospital, where we have about 1,050 cases of insanity. I have made a study of it, and have had between 6,000 and 7,000 cases under my care. I was an assistant physician at Athens. I have had charge of probably 150 cases of epilepsy. We have three kinds of epilepsy. Grand-mal is that when the patient cries out and falls unconscious. Peti-mal is similar, but the man may be working at his bench, becoming unconscious for a moment. After an attack the patient does not remember what has happened. Epileptic furor is the breaking down of the brain tissue. There are cases where crime is committed during epileptic furor, but they are usually well marked. The furor may last over a long period of time. The patient would not likely know anything afterward. Epilepsy cannot be said to be curable. If a child should be afflicted from an early age until 14 years and there was no outbreak until the age of 40 he would probably have been cured. All epileptics are not insane, and it does not lead to insanity. Some statistics say 40 per cent become insane, and others as low as 20. Paresis is the same as general paralysis of the brain. It may originate in two ways. If the difficulty be in the spinal cord, there may be nerve symptoms without materially affecting the intellect. One of the first symptoms is exaggerated ideas. The patient spends his money freely and if he has none he spends some other person's money. If diagnosing a case and I found no evidences of this exultation, I would not think the patient was affected. The physical signs are the difference in the size of the pupil of the eye, twitching of the fiber of the tongue and inability to stand with the feet together.

"I examined the defendant twice, on June 12, and last night. I made a careful examination. I tested his co-ordination, and found nothing out of normal. I took off his shoes and placed his feet together. I was unable to discover any difference in the size of the pupils of the eye. I went over him carefully in physical examination, and found nothing important. Robison said he had colic and kidney trouble and headache. His mental condition along the line of memory showed at times he was confused; but, while a little slow, was not marked. He complained of lost memory for recent events, but he seemed to be very fair. His talk was coherent, following a line of thought. At the second examination I found he trembled and swayed too much, and would have fallen had he not caught himself. I took him in a dark room and held matches before his eyes. They responded readily. He was nervous, except when I got through, when he became calm. Nervousness is not an indication of insanity. The nervousness was of an organic origin. There was no evidence of hallucination. These examinations lead me to believe he is not suffering from paresis, and had he been afflicted I certainly would have detected it. There is nothing to indicate that he is an epileptic; but many persons suffer from it and I could not tell it by looking at them. I can pick out epileptics in an asylum; but I would not want to do it on the street. I found no indication that he had for a long period been suffering from epilepsy. I saw no evidence of insanity. He knows right from wrong; but when I asked him about the tragedy, he would not talk. I don't know how much moral feeling he has. I should say he has as much will power as a man in his walk of life ordinarily has."

"I have not exhausted the subject," he said in answer to Judge Young's question on cross examination. "I don't know what epilepsy is. I don't think anyone knows. There are changes in the brain. They have been found at autopsies. The doctrine of heredity applies to epilepsy and epileptics are frequently descended from apoplectic parents."

Here Judge Young went deep into the subject of epilepsy, and asked numberless questions, Doctor Eyman answering readily.

"Madsley's prominence has been shattered, although he is still a leader. He is more theoretical than practical," the doctor continued. Judge Young read at length from his favorite authority on the subject of recollection after an attack of epilepsy. "I sometimes meet with nocturnal epilepsy, the patient knowing nothing about it. He is dazed and has the headache. His eyes are dull and heavy, which may mean much or little. Any well trained physician should recognize it. Epileptic furor does not always take the place of the seizure, and at times the mental convulsion takes the place of the physical. The milder forms are, as a rule, more conducive to mental impairment. We sometimes find the furor as a part of the general epileptic condition. It is not accepted today that the patient is irresponsible for three days before and after an attack. Is not the general rule that epilepsy tends toward insanity? I would not say that the tendency of epilepsy is toward mental impairment. I do not believe this man has epilepsy; but if others have seen him when he has come through an attack, I am willing to believe my professional brethren at any and all times."

"What is paresis?" "It is an inflammatory disease, having the same effect as a hemorrhage, but is not a hemorrhage. It affects the gray matter, but is not a disintegration of the gray matter. There is a change in the power of the gray matter. It involves every nerve. The first symptoms are mental symptoms. Elevation of the eye is first, alternating with periods of depression. Exultation may take the form of depression. As a rule, I do not regard the physical symptoms more important than the mental. I want the combined symptoms. Among the first noticed are delusions, and a complete change in the character. Loss of memory is at times an indication. In forming my opinion of this case, I did not take into consideration that there has been a marked change in this man's personality nor that he has been the victim of delusion. I might find few symptoms today and more as the disease comes on. Rest and excitement have some effect on the symptoms."

Judge Young dipped deep into another authority and quoted a number of passages tending to disprove what the doctor had said a moment before. The witness could not be made to acknowledge all these things and the judge turned to the prisoner.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., MONDAY, JUNE 21.

The Republican convention next week is expected to endorse President McKinley's administration and Mr. Hanna's candidacy, and Republican conventions are not often disappointments.

NO MAN KNOWS who the senatorial convention will nominate. There are candidates and candidates and all candidates seem ready to fight for position. It matters not who will secure the plum, one thing is certain—the winner will not get it without a battle.

THE INFIRMARY.

Columbiana county has an infirmary which is ably and efficiently managed. The expenditure of some money should be made in the application of much needed repairs, painting, etc. Such a measure is the very truest economy. Superintendent Riddle and his wife are evidently the very couple who should have control of such an institution.

STATE SENATOR.

The candidate for state senator on the Republican ticket should be a strong man—a man above reproach, able to unite the Republican voters and carry the grand old party to the victory it so richly deserves. There is no room on the ticket for poor timber. There is no room on the slate for dead matter. Our candidate should be a man whom the people delight to honor.

DOWN WITH THE WEEDS.

The health department of East Liverpool can with profit follow the example of other cities so far as weeds in streets and vacant lots are concerned. The movement is based on the belief that the town is not only disfigured, but garbage and filth, the harbingers of disease, can lie well concealed in a patch of weeds, and there will be no attempt at cleaning until the real cause is discovered. The expense of keeping the town free from weeds would not be great, yet who can measure the benefit?

LAW AND ORDER.

There are mutterings along this line which mean business. Conservative men are organizing in the city; men who mean business and who will carry out their projects, based on right, no matter what difficulties beset their pathway. This is not buncombe, but plain sense. All things come to those who wait patiently and work silently. The men mentioned have been following this plan steadily. Something is going to drop with a dull thud. And when it drops, you will hear some office holders and office seekers say: "My, my; who would have thought it?"

THE GARFIELD LAW.

The determination to test the constitutionality of the Garfield law is a step in the right direction. There is ample room for the belief that it does not fill the requirements. Its framer and the men who supported it voted for a statute that would cut down expenses of candidates and do away with the corruption so marked in Ohio politics. A thorough test has shown that the statute falls short of filling the designed purpose. If the supreme court declares it unconstitutional the way will be paved for the enactment of a better law, one that will prevent the practices which flourish even under the Garfield bill.

DOCTOR EYMAN SCORES A POINT

Does Not Think Robison Is Insane.

Entirely Too Many Movements the Next Time.

HE WAS QUESTIONED CLOSELY

The Second Week of the Murder Trial Began With the Testimony of an Eminent Specialist—His Opinions Do Not Agree With All That Other Doctors Have Said, Nor Does He Believe That All Writers on the Subject of Insanity Are Infallible—A Vigorous Cross-Examination Failed to Shake His Testimony. The Argument Began This Afternoon. Mr. Potts the First Speaker.

LISBON, June 21.—[Special]—The second week of the Robison murder trial began with everybody wondering how long it would last. No one expected a sensation, and no one believed it would end in a manner more tragic than many another murder trial has ended. It was generally conceded about the court house this morning that the testimony would all be in before the noon adjournment, and the attorneys will begin their arguments early in the afternoon.

Interest centered on Doctor Eyman, superintendent of the Newburg asylum. He it was for whom the trial was postponed last Friday; but he did not make postponement necessary a second time. Although he was not needed until this morning, he drove to town from Leetonia last evening, and was soon afterwards closeted in his room at the Hostetter House with Prosecutor Speaker. He is not a big man, that is up and down, but his well shaped head and clear eyes show that he knows things and probably knows them well.

When Robison was brought into court by Deputy Bick, he took his seat with the same mechanical stare that has characterized his appearance since the first day. He had been shaved, and his hair was neatly combed. He had nothing to say, and after carefully putting his hat under the chair, looked straight to the front. The fact that he has slept but little since Friday was clearly shown in his face, for his manner was nervous.

After Bailiff Connell had called the roll, and every juror had answered to his name, Doctor Eyman was called to the stand, and said:

"I am superintendent of the Cleveland State hospital, where we have about 1,050 cases of insanity. I have made a study of it, and have had between 6,000 and 7,000 cases under my care. I was an assistant physician at Athens. I have had charge of probably 150 cases of epilepsy. We have three kinds of epilepsy. Grand-mal is that when the patient cries out and falls unconscious. Petit-mal is similar, but the man may be working at his bench, becoming unconscious for a moment. After an attack the patient does not remember what has happened. Epileptic furor is the breaking down of the brain tissue. There are cases where crime is committed during epileptic furor, but they are usually well marked. The furor may last over a long period of time. The patient would not likely know anything afterward. Epilepsy cannot be said to be curable. If a child should be afflicted from an early age until 14 years and there was no outbreak until the age of 40 he would probably have been cured. All epileptics are not insane, and it does not lead to insanity. Some statistics say 40 per cent become insane, and others as low as 20. Paresis is the same as general paralysis of the brain. It may originate in two ways. If the difficulty be in the spinal cord, there may be nerve symptoms without materially affecting the intellect. One of the first symptoms is exaggerated ideas. The patient spends his money freely and if he has none he spends some other person's money. If diagnosing a case and I found no evidences of this exultation, I would not think the patient was affected. The physical signs are the difference in the size of the pupil of the eye, twitching of the fiber of the tongue and inability to stand with the feet together.

"I examined the defendant twice, on June 12, and last night. I made a careful examination. I tested his co-ordination, and found nothing out of normal. I took off his shoes and placed his feet together. I was unable to discover any difference in the size of the pupils of the eye. I went over him carefully in physical examination, and found nothing important. Robison said he had colic and kidney trouble and headache. His mental condition along the line of memory showed at times he was confused; but, while a little slow, was not marked. He complained of lost memory for recent events, but he seemed to be very fair. His talk was coherent, following a line of thought. At the second examination I found he trembled and swayed too much, and would have fallen had he not caught himself. I took him in a dark room and held matches before his eyes. They responded readily. He was nervous, except when I got through, when he became calm. Nervousness is not an indication of insanity. The nervousness was of an organic origin. There was no evidence of hallucination. These examinations lead me to believe he is not suffering from paresis, and had he been afflicted I certainly would have detected it. There is nothing to indicate that he is an epileptic; but many persons suffer from it and I could not tell it by looking at them. I can pick out epileptics in an asylum; but I would not want to do it on the street. I found no indication that he had for a long period been suffering from epilepsy. I saw no evidence of insanity. He knows right from wrong; but when I asked him about the tragedy, he would not talk. I don't know how much moral feeling he has. I should say he has as much will power as a man in his walk of life ordinarily has."

"I have not exhausted the subject," he said in answer to Judge Young's question on cross examination. "I don't know what epilepsy is. I don't think anyone knows. There are changes in the brain. They have been found at autopsies. The doctrine of heredity applies to epilepsy and epileptics are frequently descended from apoplectic parents."

Here Judge Young went deep into the subject of epilepsy, and asked numberless questions, Doctor Eyman answering readily.

"Madsley's prominence has been shattered, although he is still a leader. He is more theoretical than practical," the doctor continued. Judge Young read at length from his favorite authority on the subject of recollection after an attack of epilepsy. "I sometimes meet with nocturnal epilepsy, the patient knowing nothing about it. He is dazed and has the headache. His eyes are dull and heavy, which may mean much or little. Any well trained physician should recognize it. Epileptic furor does not always take the place of the seizure, and at times the mental convulsion takes the place of the physical. The milder forms are, as a rule, more conducive to mental impairment. We sometimes find the furor as a part of the general epileptic condition. It is not accepted today that the patient is irresponsible for three days before and after an attack. Is it not the general rule that epilepsy tends toward insanity? I would not say that the tendency of epilepsy is toward mental impairment. I do not believe this man has epilepsy; but if others have seen him when he has come through an attack, I am willing to believe my professional brethren at any and all times."

"What is paresis?"

"It is an inflammatory disease, having the same effect as a hemorrhage, but is not a hemorrhage. It affects the gray matter, but is not a disintegration of the gray matter. There is a change in the power of the gray matter. It involves every nerve. The first symptoms are mental symptoms. Elevation of the eye is first, alternating with periods of depression. Exultation may take the form of depression. As a rule, I do not regard the physical symptoms more important than the mental. I want the combined symptoms. Among the first noticed are delusions, and a complete change in the character. Loss of memory is at times an indication. In forming my opinion of this case, I did not take into consideration that there has been a marked change in this man's personality nor that he has been the victim of delusion. I might find few symptoms today and more as the disease comes on. Rest and excitement have some effect on the symptoms."

Judge Young dipped deep into another authority and quoted a number of passages tending to disprove what the doctor had said a moment before. The witness could not be made to acknowledge all these things and the judge turned to the prisoner.

"His eyes contracted with equal rapidity when I examined him last night. I had him cross his legs, clasp his hands and look at the ceiling while I tapped the tendon. For the first four or five taps there was no exaggeration. The last examination showed the presence of ample plonias. It is never present in a hearty person. There was no want in the power of co-ordination."

Judge Young's questions were calculated to make the doctor say that at sometime the symptoms might be present while at others they would be lacking, but met little success, the doctor stoutly maintaining the ground that the tongue test showed no indication of the presence of paresis.

"I noticed no indication of delusion," said the doctor. "I did not hear him say he had a cord in him. It might have been a delusion as well as a falsehood if he did say it. There is difference between a sane and an insane delusion. He articulated distinctly, and did not as a rule hesitate when he answered a question. It might indicate that if he considered the question the change might indicate caution or disease of the functions. There is a confusion of ideas in the early stages of paresis; in connection with the others it would be highly important."

"Even though those of you connected with asylums are not always able to determine one's mental condition on a superficial examination are you doctor?"

"No sir."

"Do you recall the case of Thomas Jones?"

"No sir, I don't."

"Suppose that in the preliminary examination there was simply complaints that he had changed and the physician could observe no evidence of mental disease, but there was a thickness in his circulation, would that be sufficient to pronounce him insane?"

"I think not."

"Yet Jones was committed to your care and died of paresis in eight months."

"Do you recall Rose Blackburn? She was discharged as cured and the next day took her life."

"I do."

"Then it is possible for you to pronounce a party sane and they be insane the next moment."

"No one is infallible."

"That is all," said Judge Young.

Mr. Speaker asked the Doctor if he noticed evidences of insanity the last time he saw Robison, and the doctor said he noticed the signs, but they were too violent, and probably not backed by disease."

"Did he say anything indicative of regret of the occurrence?"

"He said he was sorry, and it would do him good if he could talk with some one, but his lawyer would not allow him to talk."

"Did he call it an accident," hastily asked Judge Young.

"I don't recall that word, but he may have used it."

"Did you discover any want of symmetry in his head?"

"I wouldn't call it a well formed head. There is an elevation of the eyebrow. I did not notice a marked depression in the posterior of the head. I don't think that want of symmetry is an indication of mental trouble."

"I took 600 heads, epileptics, degenerate, etc., and found no abnormal head," he said to Mr. Speaker, and the testimony for the trial closed.

THE ARGUMENT.

Attorney Potts Began the List of Speakers.

LISBON, June 21.—[Special.]—The opening of court at 2 o'clock this afternoon saw the prisoner in his accustomed place, and a small crowd to hear the argument. Judge Smith decided not to limit the speakers, but to give them what time they desired.

Mr. Potts opened with a few instances where insanity had been the claim. He showed that the defendant was guilty of murder in the first degree, unless the defense had shown his insanity; there was no intermediate condition. Robison is guilty of murder in the first degree or he is not guilty at all. Mr. Potts is still speaking.

Mr. Potts will be followed by Attorney Grosshans, Judge Young comes next and Prosecutor Speaker will wind up the argument tomorrow, soon after dinner. The case will then be ready to go to the jury about 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

future seems as nothing. He lives in the present, and just now that present seems more than he can bear.

With hair disheveled and one bony hand supporting his thin, pale face, he seemed the picture of distress as he looked through the bars of his cell in the old Lisbon jail and endeavored to talk with the representative of the NEWS REVIEW. If possible he presented an appearance more unattractive than at any time since the night of his arrest, when he talked upon the hard bed in cell No. 1 at city hall and pleaded for news of his dead wife's injury. He wore no coat and but one suspender supported the gray trousers he had on the time of the tragedy. He was not feeling well, his eyes showed traces of recent tears and an aspect of utter dejection completely surrounded him. A more pitiful object it would be difficult to imagine.

"Yes, I'm sick," he said. "There was a doctor here last night and he put a mustard plaster on my back to draw the blood from my head. The pain ain't there," putting his hand to his head. "It's here, in my heart. It's the death of my wife. I don't care, they can set me in the chair and electrocute me if they want to. It's the death of my wife."

Then he turned and threw himself on the bed, burying his face in his hands. He talked as though he was consumed with grief, apparently giving no thought to the fact that he is being tried for the murder of the woman whose death causes him such bitter sorrow.

WAS NOT A HOLDUP

But It Had All the Ear Marks at the Time.

TWO YOUNG MEN WERE SCARED

A Very Peculiar Incident on the Calcutta Road—The Affair May Yet Cause Trouble. A Young Man and a Young Woman the Principals.

On Sunday night, about half past nine o'clock, a two horse conveyance started down the Calcutta hill leading into East Liverpool. Seated in the conveyance were two ladies and a gentleman, earnestly engaged in conversation respecting the beauty of the day just closing and the magnificent landscape view which had been spread out before them on the round trip to Lisbon, when they were greeted by a voice from the roadside with:

"Hold up, stranger, please. Will you be so kind as to help me out of an ugly difficulty. There is a young lady lying here in the pathway in a dead faint. I have been trying to restore her to consciousness, but find it impossible to do so. I don't like to leave her in such a condition, while I go for help, and she is too heavy for me to carry any great distance. I hailed two young men who were driving past a few minutes ago, and begged them to help me; but they were evidently afraid of a putup job or holdup, as they drove off at a racing pace. It's a nasty position to be in, and I'll be very much obliged to you if you let me place the young woman in your rig and convey her where she can receive assistance. I believe that she is occasionally subject to these spells and sometimes remains under their influence for several hours. She was badly scared by a cow which sprang up from the side of the roadway, and this was the cause of her collapse tonight. I don't want to take her to her own home, as I know there will be a fuss if she is taken there in her present condition. I want to take her to a friend's home, where she can receive proper attention, and after she has recovered, then I'll see her safely home."

The young fellow had talked very rapidly and very earnestly, and the driver had halted to listen to his plea, while, from the rear seat, his lady friends pleaded:

"Drive on, drive on! There is something very wrong here. I wouldn't stop a minute. There is some plot here, and you will get into difficulty."

The gentleman thought differently; and, believing that the case demanded immediate action, allowed the young woman to be placed in the vehicle, still keeping a close eye on the young man, fearing that he would make himself scarce; but the young fellow plodded along by the side of the vehicle, apparently deeply interested in the fate of his companion. The ladies now did everything in their power to restore the young girl to consciousness, but all in vain.

Coming down into the city, the young man desired to take the girl at once to the home of a friend of his; but the gentleman driving would not hear to this, insisting on taking her to a well known physician's, which plan was finally adopted, and she was soon resting in an easy chair in the physician's office, while the doctor made a diagnosis of her case, but found it impossible to rouse her from her lethargy.

Inquiry on the part of the gentleman in charge of the conveyance developed the fact that the patient's condition was the result of hysteria; that she was not dangerously ill, but that she might not recover full consciousness for hours to come, and advised that she be taken at once to her friend's home, disrobed and made as comfortable as possible under the circumstances, and then let nature do the rest. In conformity with this advice, the young lady, still unconscious and a dead weight, was placed in the vehicle again and rapidly driven to the point designated by the young man, who routed out his friend, made her acquainted with the circumstances, received her consent to bring the young woman in, took the unconscious form again in his arms and entered the house, remarking:

"Please don't make too much of a sensation out of this matter in your paper tomorrow. If you do write it up, there is no necessity of mentioning names, as it might cause both myself and the young lady trouble. I've given you my right name and the place where I work. I've also given you the right name of my young friend here. Let us down easy. I am very much obliged for your unselfish kindness. Good night."

"Yes, I'm sick," he said. "There was a mustard plaster on my back to draw the blood from my head. The pain ain't there," putting his hand to his head. "It's here, in my heart. It's the death of my wife. I don't care, they can set me in the chair and electrocute me if they want to. It's the death of my wife."

Then he turned and threw himself on the bed, burying his face in his hands. He talked as though he was consumed with grief, apparently giving no thought to the fact that he is being tried for the murder of the woman whose death causes him such bitter sorrow.

"Fats" versus "Leans." Rock Springs Park, Tuesday, June 22. Greatest fun of the season. Game called at 3:30. Admission, gentlemen 15 cents. Ladies free.

WERE GAMBLING.

Six Men Were Arrested in the Foutts Block Last Night.

Officers Johnson, Whan and Moore raided a room in the Foutts building early this morning, and arrested Will James, Charles Anderson, John Duff, John Glasscock, John Foster and Donald Harrison. Each were charged with gambling, and when taken to the front office each put up a forfeit for their appearance.

William Martin was run in by Officer Whan Saturday night for being drunk. He was given a hearing and is still in the coop.

Mark Gibbons was liberated this morning after he paid a fine of $6.60.

The condition of William McCarroll of which an account will be found in another column, is somewhat improved.

Music and Dancing at Rock Springs Park every afternoon and evening, until 10 o'clock.

LAUGH AND GROW FAT.

If You Don't Like to Be Fat, Then Take Lean.

Do you want to see genuine, unadulterated fun? If you do, then go to Rock Springs park tomorrow, Tuesday afternoon, at 3:30. The "Fats" will wipe up the earth with the "Leans," and the "Leans" will demoralize and annihilate the "Fats," in the greatest game ever seen in this neck of woods. Admission, gentlemen, 15c. Ladies free.

Music and Dancing at Rock Springs Park every afternoon and evening, until 10 o'clock.

Jimmy Is Kind.

WAS NOT A HOLDUP

But It Had All the Ear Marks at the Time.

TWO YOUNG MEN WERE SCARED

A Very Peculiar Incident on the Calcutta Road—The Affair May Yet Cause Trouble. A Young Man and a Young Woman the Principals.

On Sunday night, about half past nine o'clock, a two horse conveyance started down the Calcutta hill leading into East Liverpool. Seated in the conveyance were two ladies and a gentleman, earnestly engaged in conversation respecting the beauty of the day just closing and the magnificent landscape view which had been speeded out before them on the round trip to Lisbon, when they were greeted by a voice from the roadside with:

"Hold up, stranger, please. Will you be so kind as to help me out of an ugly difficulty. There is a young lady lying here in the pathway in a dead faint. I have been trying to restore her to consciousness, but find it impossible to do so. I don't like to leave her in such a condition, while I go for help, and she is too heavy for me to carry any great distance. I hailed two young men who were driving past a few minutes ago, and begged them to help me; but they were evidently afraid of a putup job or holdup, as they drove off at a racing pace. It's a nasty obligation to be in, and I'll be very much obliged to you if you let me place the young woman in your rig and convey her where she can receive assistance. I believe that she is occasionally subject to these spells and sometimes remains under their influence for several hours. She was badly scared by a cow which sprang up from the side of the roadway, and this was the cause of her collapse tonight. I don't want to take her to her own home, as I know there will be a fuss if she is taken there in her present condition. I want to take her to a friend's home, where she can receive proper attention, and after she has recovered, then I'll see her safely home."

The young fellow had talked very rapidly and very earnestly, and the driver had halted to listen to his plea, while, from the rear seat, his lady friends pleaded:

"Drive on, drive on! There is something very wrong here. I wouldn't stop a minute. There is some plot here, and you will get into difficulty."

The gentleman thought differently; and, believing that the case demanded immediate action, allowed the young woman to be placed in the vehicle, still keeping a close eye on the young man, fearing that he would make himself scarce; but the young fellow plodded along by the side of the vehicle, apparently deeply interested in the fate of his companion. The ladies now did everything in their power to restore the young girl to consciousness, but all in vain.

Coming down into the city, the young man desired to take the girl at once to the home of a friend of his; but the gentleman driving would not hear to this, insisting on taking her to a well known physician's, which plan was finally adopted, and she was soon resting in an easy chair in the physician's office, while the doctor made a diagnosis of her case, but found it impossible to rouse her from her lethargy.

Inquiry on the part of the gentleman in charge of the conveyance developed the fact that the patient's condition was the result of hysteria; that she was not dangerously ill, but that she might not recover full consciousness for hours to come, and advised that she be taken at once to her friend's home, disrobed and made as comfortable as possible under the circumstances, and then let nature do the rest. In conformity with this advice, the young lady, still unconscious and a dead weight, was placed in the vehicle again and rapidly driven to the point designated by the young man, who routed out his friend, made her acquainted with the circumstances, received her consent to bring the young woman in, took the unconscious form again in his arms and entered the house, remarking:

"Please don't make too much of a sensation out of this matter in your paper tomorrow. If you do write it up, there is no necessity of mentioning names, as it might cause both myself and the young lady trouble. I've given you my right name and the place where I work. I've also given you the right name of my young friend here. Let us down easy. I am very much obliged for your unselfish kindness. Good night."

Fun till you grow fat. Where? Rock Springs Park, Tuesday afternoon. "Fats" and "Leans."

THE RECORD OF A DAY

William McCarroll Had His Ankle Broken and

TOM BLACK TOOK A HEADER

A Piece of Peanut Taffy Came Near Causing the Death of Edward Zink, While Devere Coburn Is Kicked by a Horse and Receives Painful Injuries.

William McCarroll broke his right foot at 6 o'clock yesterday morning, at West End park. He had been out all of Saturday night and went there to sleep. In ascending the steps his foot caught in an opening, causing him to fall. He laid there until 7 o'clock in the evening, when the patrol was summoned and took him to the jail, where the broken member was set by Doctor Williams. It will be several months before he will be able to put the foot on the ground. Tomorrow he will be taken to the infirmary by the township trustees.

Tom Black, while riding a wheel on lower Fifth street, Saturday evening, met with what might have been a serious accident. Near Jefferson street a small child by the name of Gibson came in contact with the wheel, and was thrown to the ground. The child was taken to her home and a physician summoned. Upon examination it was found the child was unhurt. Black was thrown from his wheel, his coat was badly torn, his right side bruised and his left arm hurt so that it will be some time before he will be able to use it. A young man named Allen was also thrown from his wheel, but aside from a few spokes being broken, no damage resulted.

A small piece of peanut candy nearly caused the death of Edward Zink, Saturday evening. His son noticed his father getting black in the face, when he went to him and hit him in the back, dislodging the mite. A physician was summoned, but had it not been for the quick action of his son, death would have resulted.

Devere Coburn, while working about a team of horses on Avondale street, Saturday, was kicked in the back by one of the animals. His clothing was badly torn and other minor injuries were received. He was taken to his home in Sixth street, where he is now improving.

Settling a Bet.

The quiet of the room in which the answers to queries editor sat was disturbed by the entrance of two half grown boys.

One of them pulled off his hat and addressed him:

"Me and this feller have made a bet," he said, "and we've agreed to leave it to you. He bets that if all the turkeys that was ett last Christmas was placed in a line they would reach around the world, and I bet they wouldn't. Who's lost?"

"You have, my son," answered the man in the chair. "They might be placed a mile apart and they would still be in a line, you know."

As they turned and went out of the room the boy who had acted as spokesman was seen to hand a small coin over to the other with great reluctance, and distinctly heard to say:

"Well, I can lick you, anyhow."

"Bet you a nickel on that, too," replied the other boy.—Chicago Tribune.

A Berlin Custom.

In Berlin there are iron posts or stanchions fixed on the curb at convenient distances, marked "halting place," for omnibus or tramcar. At these places the passengers wait, and the drivers are not allowed to pull up at any other spot. When an omnibus approaches one of these posts, the conductor calls out, "Halting place!" and if a passenger wants to get out or if any passengers are waiting to get in the driver pulls up; if not, he passes on.

Hot Waves.

The new steamer Queen City left Cincinnati Saturday evening on the maiden trip with a large list of passengers. The boat is making exceptionally fast time, and is booked to land at this port at 11 o'clock tomorrow.

June 22 and 23 special excursion tickets will be sold to Dayton, O., via Pennsylvania lines, account Christian Endeavor Union of Ohio; return coupons valid Friday, June 24, inclusive. *

A Slow Day.

Shipments at the freight depot were rather light Saturday. Only 12 cars were loaded and about 8 were unloaded. But 78 cars were handled during the day.

Progress.

"That singer has made great strides in the profession, hasn't she?" "Yes, indeed. Formerly, when she received an encore, she sang; now she usually smiles."—Brooklyn Life.

TRADES THAT KILL.

Occupations That Gradually Destroy the Lives of the Men Engaged in Them.

People are afraid to travel by land or sea and take out all sorts of accident policies, but there are many legitimate occupations or trades that kill as certainly and steadily as the most ill regulated steam engine. An old writer said that human life was the cheapest thing on earth. Strange to say, says an English trade journal, you cannot frighten the workmen who know how dangerous is their trade, and not even higher wages will tempt them from such death traps. Lead, in the form of bullets and shot, is a deadly, dangerous thing, but it is also death dealing to all who use it in their work, as house painters, gilders, calico printers, type foundries, potters and braziers.

Mercury is a foe to life. Those who make mirrors, barometers or thermometers, who etch or color wool or felt, will soon feel the effect of the nitrate of mercury in teeth, gums and the tissues of the body. Silver kills those who handle it, and photographers, makers of hair dyes and ink and other preparations are long turn gray, while a deadly weariness subdues them, and soon they succumb. Copper enters into the composition of many articles of everyday life, and too soon those who work in bronzing and similar decorative processes lose teeth and eyesight and finally life. Makers of wall paper grow pale and sick from the arsenic in its coloring, and matchmakers lose strength and vitality from the excess of phosphorus used in their business.

Nitric acid is used by engravers, by etchers in copper, by makers of gun cotton and those who supply our homes with lovely picture frames. Its fumes are poison to the human lungs and soon destroy them completely. Ammonia kills the soapmakers; workers in guano grow deaf; hydrocyanic acid deals death to gilders, photographers and picture finishers, while zinc is a fatal foe to calico printers, makers of optical glasses and meerschau pipes.

Mankind is by nature brave, and very few are deterred from action because of supposed danger. If the great builders and engineers of the world would stop and ask, "How many lives will this undertaking cost?" it is probable that the world would be without some of the greatest triumphs of modern thought. Everyday life and common occupations are full of silent courage, and all around are workers who die in the harness and are true heroes without knowing it.

A FAMOUS GAMBLER.

Pat Sheedy's Word Invariably Taken as Security For a Loan.

"There isn't a sporting man in the United States who would refuse to stake Pat Sheedy at any game and ask no better security than his word," said one of Mr. Sheedy's friends on Saturday evening. "His reputation is known among bankers too. I remember a little incident that occurred in Boston a few years ago that illustrates this. Pat had spent some time in Saratoga and luck was against him. He came down to Boston, and the first night that he was in town he went against a faro game and it broke him. He didn't have enough left to pay his way back to New York. Pat walked into a certain bank in Boston whose president had the reputation of being a good fellow. He asked for the president, and when he had been ushered into the office he said:

"I came to borrow a small amount from your bank, $1,000 in fact."

"Pat, you know, looks like a prosperous, conservative business man, and evidently the president thought that he was."

"All right," was the reply. "We shall be glad to let you have the money. What is your security?"

"Simply my word."

"That won't do in the banking business. Who are you?"

"I am Pat Sheedy, the gambler," was the cool reply.

"It happened that the president knew him by reputation, and after a short talk with Pat he gave him the $1,000 from his personal account. Two days later Pat came in and returned it. He had cleared it from the game and as much more."—New York Sun.

Photographs by Sugar Light.

A scientist has discovered that light may be produced from sugar. He has succeeded in taking several photographs by the light supplied by sugar only. The sugar was first exposed to a direct sunlight for two hours and then placed in a dark room. Immediately on being placed in the darkness the sunlight stored in the sugar began to glow, faintly at first, but quite brightly after a few minutes. After about 20 minutes, during which time the photographs were taken, the light began to die away and gradually went out. The photographs taken by sugar light are quite distinct, though not as clear as an ordinary photograph. The scientist who made this discovery declares that by exposing a sack of sugar to strong sunlight for two hours enough light could be procured from it to illumine a small house for the same period.—London Tit-Bits.

Discomfited.

An amusing story is told of now the late Lord Fitzgerald discomfited a treasury official who was sent over from England to complain of the excessive expenditure for coal in the lord chief justice's court. He received the man and listened gravely and formally while the latter stated his errand and enlarged upon the importance of economy in the matter of fuel. At the conclusion of the discourse he rang the bell, and when the servant appeared said, "Tell Mary that the man has come about the coals."

The Ways of Indian Medicine Men.

Major A. E. Woodson, agent of the Cheyenne and Arapahoe Indians of Oklahoma, says that the reign of the medicine men is one of the greatest outrages of the present day, and as a direct result of their pernicious practice one-third of the children born of Indian parents die every year.

Two of Black Coyote's children were taken sick, and, instead of taking them to the government hospital, he sent for the medicine man, who blew a green powder into the lungs, ears and the nostrils of one of the little patients. That medicine failing, the medicine man made an incision with his knife under the tongue of the child, with the result that death soon followed. When the green powder failed to restore the child to health, the medicine man declared that there was a ghost under the child's tongue, and it was to kill the ghost that he made the incision.

The medicine man then adopted heroic measures in order to save the other child. He took it into a tent, stripped it naked and laid it on a cot. He then heated a big pile of rocks in the tent and when they were hot he threw water on them, filling the tent with steam and causing the child to sweat copiously. When the child was covered with perspiration, he took it out in the cold air and sent it home without having taken any precaution to keep it from getting cold. Next morning the child was dead. This is only one of the hundreds of such outrages against the health and life of innocent people. The big medicine man of the Cheyennes is Little Man, who lives near Cantonment. He makes his medicines every year and distributes them to the other medicine men.—Boston Transcript.

Abuse of the Eyesight.

In the waiting room of an up town physician sat, one morning, a dozen persons trying to read. The windows were draped with heavy lace curtains, the dull yellow shades were drawn down to within about a yard of the bottom of the long windows, and as the day was cloudy the light in the room was a very subdued twilight. Finally a late comer had the courage—it required some, everything was so very quiet and irrefragable—to go to the hall and ask the dress suited door opener to come and raise the shades. This he at once did and turned on as well the electric lights in the back part of the room, to the great betterment of the reading light. Which little incident is cited to emphasize what an oculist characterizes as the reckless abuse of the eyesight which in these days has assumed the proportions of an evil.

"On street and railway cars, in libraries, schools, offices, homes, everywhere, eyes are unnecessarily tried," he says, "with the result that half the world is in glasses years before the need should arise. It is so usual a thing now for persons to be afflicted with ocular headaches, that when a physician's advice is sought for a persistent and unexplained headache the patient is first turned over to an oculist. Nine times out of ten defective vision sufficient to produce the disturbance is found, and seven times out of ten the sufferer is the victim of his own want of care in the use of his eyes. Women are frequent sinners in this respect; they protect their complexions in every possible way, while to the delicate organ of sight they give never a thought till the mischief is done."—New York Post.

Didn't Understand English.

A Chinaman was once "hauled up" before a magistrate in Sydney, New South Wales, and charged with some offense. In reply to his worship's usual query as to whether he pleaded guilty or not, he would only answer:

"Me no sabee! Me no talkee English!"

The magistrate, however, who was quite accustomed to the proceeding on the part of many Celestials who came before him, turned to him and said:

"That answer won't do for me. You know English well enough, I'll be bound."

"Me no sabee—me no sabee!" were the only words to be drawn from obstinate Chinkey, and, no Chinese interpreter being in court, the magistrate, taking the matter into his own hands, directed the case to be proceeded with as if the accused had pleaded not guilty.

After hearing the evidence of the witnesses the accused was fined $10 and costs.

The clerk to the bench, who was a bit of a wag, called out to the accused: "John, you are fined $25 and costs." "No, no!" promptly replied the non-English speaking Chinese. "He say me fined only $10 and costs."—Chicago Post.

The oldest tree in England is the yew tree at Braburn, in Kent, which is said to be 3,000 years old, while at Fortingal, in Perthshire, is one nearly as old. At Ankerwyke House, near Staines, is a yew tree which was famous at the date of the signing of Magna Charta.

Glass Tombstones.

It is a comparatively new idea to put up tombstones and monuments of glass, instead of marble or granite, but it is a practical one and likely to meet with great encouragement from those who desire these memorials to be lasting. Glass resists the elements and is to all intents and purposes indestructible. Stone of all sorts crumbles and disintegrates under the action of the elements. But glass remains and will endure for centuries. It is, therefore, proposed that all memorial tablets, monuments and headstones be made of glass. Any color may be selected, pure white, of course, having the first choice. Lettering may be put on in any style, and any device or pattern may be used. It has long been understood that for marine purposes thick plate glass is the only practical and appropriate material, resisting storms and seas as no other substance can.—New York Ledger.

Borneo Marriages.

The marriage ceremony practiced by the people of Borneo is short and simple. Bride and groom are brought before the assembled tribe with great solemnity and seated side by side. A betel nut is then cut in two by the medicine woman of the tribe, and one half is given to the bride and the other half to the groom. They begin to chew the nut, and then the old woman, after some sort of incantation, knocks their heads together, and they are declared man and wife.

Order of the Garter.

The Order of the Garter was instituted by Edward III. The number of persons was for long strictly limited to 25, besides the sovereign. Other statutes have since been made extending the number by admitting foreign potentates and members of the royal family in addition to the 25.

"There isn't a sporting man in the United States who would refuse to stake Pat Sheedy at any game and ask no better security than his word," said one of Mr. Sheedy's friends on Saturday evening. "His reputation is known among bankers too. I remember a little incident that occurred in Boston a few years ago that illustrates this. Pat had spent some time in Saratoga and luck was against him. He came down to Boston, and the first night that he was in town he went against a faro game and it broke him. He didn't have enough left to pay his way back to New York. Pat walked into a certain bank in Boston whose president had the reputation of being a good fellow. He asked for the president, and when he had been ushered into the office he said:

"I came to borrow a small amount from your bank, $1,000 in fact."

"Pat, you know, looks like a prosperous, conservative business man, and evidently the president thought that he was."

"All right," was the reply. "We shall be glad to let you have the money. What is your security?"

"Simply my word."

"That won't do in the banking business. Who are you?"

"I am Pat Sheedy, the gambler," was the cool reply.

"It happened that the president knew him by reputation, and after a short talk with Pat he gave him the $1,000 from his personal account. Two days later Pat came in and returned it. He had cleared it from the game and as much more."—New York Sun.

Photographs by Sugar Light.

A scientist has discovered that light may be produced from sugar. He has succeeded in taking several photographs by the light supplied by sugar only. The sugar was first exposed to a direct sunlight for two hours and then placed in a dark room. Immediately on being placed in the darkness the sunlight stored in the sugar began to glow, faintly at first, but quite brightly after a few minutes. After about 20 minutes, during which time the photographs were taken, the light began to die away and gradually went out. The photographs taken by sugar light are quite distinct, though not as clear as an ordinary photograph. The scientist who made this discovery declares that by exposing a sack of sugar to strong sunlight for two hours enough light could be procured from it to illumine a small house for the same period.—London Tit-Bits.

Discomfited.

An amusing story is told of now the late Lord Fitzgerald discomfited a treasury official who was sent over from England to complain of the excessive

expenditure for coal in the lord chief justice's court. He received the man and listened gravely and formally while the latter stated his errand and enlarged upon the importance of economy in the matter of fuel. At the conclusion of the discourse he rang the bell, and when the servant appeared said, "Tell Mary that the man has come about the coals."

The Ways of Indian Medicine Men.

Major A. E. Woodson, agent of the Cheyenne and Arapahoe Indians of Oklahoma, says that the reign of the medicine men is one of the greatest outrages of the present day, and as a direct result of their pernicious practice one-third of the children born of Indian parents die every year.

Two of Black Coyote's children were taken sick, and, instead of taking them to the government hospital, he sent for the medicine man, who blew a green powder into the lungs, ears and the nostrils of one of the little patients. That medicine failing, the medicine man made an incision with his knife under the tongue of the child, with the result that death soon followed. When the green powder failed to restore the child to health, the medicine man declared that there was a ghost under the child's tongue, and it was to kill the ghost that he made the incision.

The medicine man then adopted heroic measures in order to save the other child. He took it into a tent, stripped it naked and laid it on a cot. He then heated a big pile of rocks in the tent and when they were hot he threw water on them, filling the tent with steam and causing the child to sweat copiously. When the child was covered with perspiration, he took it out in the cold air and sent it home without having taken any precaution to keep it from getting cold. Next morning the child was dead. This is only one of the hundreds of such outrages against the health and life of innocent people. The big medicine man of the Cheyennes is Little Man, who lives near Cantonment. He makes his medicines every year and distributes them to the other medicine men.—Boston Transcript.

Abuse of the Eyesight.

In the waiting room of an up town physician sat, one morning, a dozen persons trying to read. The windows were draped with heavy lace curtains, the dull yellow shades were drawn down to within about a yard of the bottom of the long windows, and as the day was cloudy the light in the room was a very subdued twilight. Finally a late comer had the courage—it required some, everything was so very quiet and irreproachable—to go to the hall and ask the dress suited door opener to come and raise the shades. This he at once did and turned on as well the electric lights in the back part of the room, to the great betterment of the reading light. Which little incident is cited to emphasize what an oculist characterizes as the reckless abuse of the eyesight which in these days has assumed the proportions of an evil.

"On street and railway cars, in libraries, schools, offices, homes, everywhere, eyes are unnecessarily tried," he says, "with the result that half the world is in glasses years before the need should arise. It is so usual a thing now for persons to be afflicted with ocular headaches, that when a physician's advice is sought for a persistent and unexplained headache the patient is first turned over to an oculist. Nine times out of ten defective vision sufficient to produce the disturbance is found, and seven times out of ten the sufferer is the victim of his own want of care in the use of his eyes. Women are frequent sinners in this respect; they protect their complexions in every possible way, while to the delicate organ of sight they give never a thought till the mischief is done."—New York Post.

Didn't Understand English.

A Chinaman was once "hauled up" before a magistrate in Sydney, New South Wales, and charged with some offense. In reply to his worship's usual query as to whether he pleaded guilty or not, he would only answer:

"Me no sabee! Me no talkee English!"

The magistrate, however, who was quite accustomed to the proceeding on the part of many Celestials who came before him, turned to him and said:

"That answer won't do for me. You know English well enough, I'll be bound."

"Me no sabee—me no sabee!" were the only words to be drawn from obstinate Chinkey, and, no Chinese interpreter being in court, the magistrate, taking the matter into his own hands, directed the case to be proceeded with as if the accused had pleaded not guilty.

After hearing the evidence of the witnesses the accused was fined $10 and costs.

The clerk to the bench, who was a bit of a wag, called out to the accused:

"John, you are fined $25 and costs."

"No, no!" promptly replied the non-English speaking Chinese. "He say me fined only $10 and costs."—Chicago Post.

The oldest tree in England is the yew tree at Braburn, in Kent, which is said to be 3,000 years old, while at Fortingal, in Perthshire, is one nearly as old. At Ankerwyke House, near Staines, is a yew tree which was famous at the date of the signing of Magna Charta.

Glass Tombstones.

It is a comparatively new idea to put up tombstones and monuments of glass, instead of marble or granite, but it is a practical one and likely to meet with great encouragement from those who desire these memorials to be lasting. Glass resists the elements and is to all intents and purposes indestructible. Stone of all sorts crumbles and disintegrates under the action of the elements. But glass remains and will endure for centuries. It is, therefore, proposed that all memorial tablets, monuments and headstones be made of glass. Any color may be selected, pure white, of course, having the first choice. Lettering may be put on in any style, and any device or pattern may be used. It has long been understood that for marine purposes thick plate glass is the only practical and appropriate material, resisting storms and seas as no other substance can.—New York Ledger.

Borneo Marriages.

The marriage ceremony practiced by the people of Borneo is short and simple. Bride and groom are brought before the assembled tribe with great solemnity and seated side by side. A betel nut is then cut in two by the medicine woman of the tribe, and one half is given to the bride and the other half to the groom. They begin to chew the nut, and then the old woman, after some sort of incantation, knocks their heads together, and they are declared man and wife.

Order of the Garter.

The Order of the Garter was instituted by Edward III. The number of persons was for long strictly limited to 25, besides the sovereign. Other statutes have since been made extending the number by admitting foreign potentates and members of the royal family in addition to the 25.

THE CUBAN QUESTION

Will Appear at the Republican Convention.

LIBRARIAN GALBREATH BUSY

The Columbus League, of Which He Is a Member, Will Endeavor to Have a Resolution Adopted—How It Touches State Politics.

Prof. Charles Galbreath, who is very well known to a great many people in this county and who now occupies the position of state librarian at Columbus, has created something of a sensation by saying that the Republican state convention will be called to act upon the Cuban question.

The Cuban league, of which Mr. Galbreath is a leading member, has a powerful influence in Columbus, and expects to make it felt at the convention. Without regard to partisan feeling it will likely ask the state gatherings of the two great parties to endorse the cause of Cuba. Mr. Galbreath voiced the sentiment of the league when he spoke to the reporter in these words:

"The action will not be taken in the interest of Senator Foraker. The league, as every person here knows, is a non-partisan organization. It is not interested in the promotion of political interests of any man or faction. The members of the league admired Senator Foraker's speech on the Cuban question and many of them wired or wrote their congratulations. Among those who did so were some of the leading Democrats of the city. The league was organized for the purpose of promoting the Cuban cause months before Foraker made his speech. Had he opposed the cause to which we are devoted we would have disapproved his course.

"The adoption of the resolution could not necessarily be construed as disapproval of Senator Hanna's attitude. Senator Hanna opposed the Morgan resolution because he considered it 'inopportune.' Calhoun has now returned and in the light of recent events Senator Hanna may now favor a Cuban resolution. If his friends in the convention vigorously opposed it, of course that would indicate that he is unfriendly to the Cuban cause. I certainly think the Democratic convention will pass a Cuban resolution."

THE PROPER MOVE.

The Officers Will Enforce the Law In Regard to Firecrackers.

The small boy who is caught setting off any fire works before the Fourth of July will be severely dealt with by the city authorities. There is an ordinance governing such action, and it is the intention of the mayor to see that it is enforced. There is a salty penalty awaiting the first one caught in the future. This morning, on Fifth street, near Market, some boys almost caused a run-off by firing crackers. Stop it.

NOW READY.

The United States Engineer Corps to Leave the City.

The United States engineering corps, composed of 40 men, and the United States Steamer Edna will leave this evening or early in the morning for Phillis Island near Georgetown. Capt. R. R. Jones is in charge of the men. The boat will place two one mile marks on the Virginia shore opposite this city sometime next week, when it is on its way to Marietta.

To the State Convention.

The following delegates left today for Toledo, where they will attend the session of the executive committee of the State Republican League: John S. Goodwin, W. L. Smith, John N. Taylor, B. C. Simms and Hal Harker. The session will last four days, and it is the intention of the delegates to nominate Governor Bushnell for another term.

Ice Cream Festival.

The young people of the West End chapel will give an ice cream and strawberry festival at Riverside park, Tuesday evening, June 22. You have a cordial invitation to be present. Proceeds for the Christian Endeavor society and the benefit of the chapel. The treat will be a nice one. Bring your lady friends.

Going West.

Next week James Ford and wife, of Fifth street, will leave for Redwing, Mo. Ill health is the cause of the journey and several months will be spent there by them.

—Mrs. A. Ulrich and family left Saturday night for a two months' visit in Cincinnati.

RAKED UP HIS LATIN.

And Succeeded In Unearthing Terms That Startled the Waiter.

A western lawyer went into the Planter's cafe a few days ago. He had not always lived in the far west and in his college days in the east was well enough acquainted with the French bills of fare of swell New York restaurants. But out in his new home he had forgotten about soup au pot gras and pomme de terre a la duchesse. The fact that he could not read some of the delicacies on the menu exasperated him, and he proceeded to have fun with the waiter.

"Nothing here that I'd care for," said he to the claw hampered attendant. "We can serve you anything for dinner, sir," said the waiter, confident that he could please his customer before he got through with him.

"Have you sine qua non?" The waiter stared. "No-o-o, sir," he answered.

"What about bonmots? Have you any?" "No, sir."

"Then let me have some nice ignis fatuus. That's good at this time of the year."

"We haven't got it."

"Bring me some tempus fugit then."

"That's out, too, sir."

"You must have e pluribus unum."

This time the waiter looked bright. "I've heard them speak about it in the kitchen. I'll go and see."

He came back empty handed and dejected. "We haven't got it," he stammered.

"Strange that I can't get any of these seasonal things. Try once more and find out if they have pro bono publico."

"I'll call Mr. Weaver," said the waiter, almost crazy by this time. "Perhaps he can tell what you want."

The guest from the west caught him by the coat tails.

"All right," said he, "and in the meantime bring me some roast beef and fried potatoes."

"We have it!" yelled the waiter in his delight at hearing of something that was obtainable, and he flew off to the kitchen and came back with the beef and the potatoes and Landlord Weaver in the wake.

The attorney and the hotel man had a good laugh at the expense of the unfortunate waiter, who confided to the chef in the kitchen that he had struck a man who must have been eating at Delmonico's all his life.—St. Louis Republic.

PRAYING BICYCLES.

Japanese Attach Prayer Wheels to the Hubs of Their Machines.

The bicycle is now employed to aid the pious Buddhist in praying with greater ease, but yet, as he hopes, with great effect. It is from the ingenious and enterprising country of Japan that this new departure is reported.

The Buddhist has always done his praying with the assistance of a wheel. The prayers are placed inside the wheel, which turns round, following the direction of the sun, and delivers up to heaven the prayers of the owner, or of all whose thoughts are fixed upon it. Some enormous wheels are capable of praying for thousands of people. This mode of worship may seem somewhat irresponsible to western people, but the Buddhist, who is a subtle reasoner, would be able to explain why it is satisfactory.

In various parts of the vast territory in which the Buddhist faith is held different motive powers are used in these prayer wheels. Some humble persons turn the wheel by hand, but not if they can help it. On the hills of Tibet, a great stronghold of pure Buddhism, the wheels are usually so built that the wind turns them. In other places they are moved by water power.

But it is obvious that wind must fail occasionally and that this may happen when the Buddhist is particularly in need of copious prayer. Water power, too, is often lacking.

So the ingenious Jap now attaches a small prayer wheel to the hub of his bicycle, and when he takes a ride he combines worship with recreation. By giving a glance at his pedometer he can tell just how much praying he has done. He can also keep an accurate daily record, which will enable him to tell after a number of years just how much prayer stands to his credit. In this way Buddhism seems to have given a zest to bicycling which no other religion can supply.—New York Journal.

An Ingenious Idea.

There is a certain genius in one of our western towns who will doubtless never lose any of his worldly possessions if it depends on his wit to retain them. His entry into the town and a subsequent method he employed to secure redress from a grocer who had outrageously imposed upon him by selling him a lot of sugar mixed with lime sufficiently testify to his ability in such matters. The impurity of the sugar was hardly perceptible at first, but when put into use it quickly showed its inferiority. The next day an advertisement appeared in the town paper that read somewhat as follows:

"Should the grocer who for his profits injudiciously mixed a pound of lime with a few pounds of sugar and lately sold it to a customer not send to that person at once the pound of sugar he cheated him of, his name shall be disclosed to the newspapers." To which advertisement he affixed his name and address.

The morning had hardly passed before a pound of sugar arrived, followed in quick succession by seven more, all from different sources, which plainly showed a distressing want of honesty among the grocers of the town.

It is not related whether the coffee, tea and various other articles were examined by the genius in hopes of a similar condition and a like reward, but the presumption is that no time was lost in ascertaining if such a possibility actually existed.—Harper's Round Table.

When a Man Is Fifty.

"A man's advancing age tells on him in no other way more unmistakably than in his habits of rising in the morning," remarked Colonel Peter Toliver of Philadelphia to a St. Louis Republic reporter. "I wake up every morning with the sun. Time was when I used to regard it as a hardship to be waked before 8 o'clock. That was when I was young. When I reached 50, I began to wake with the sun, and no matter how late I sat up the night before I found myself tired of sleeping beyond the hour of the sun's rising. Many men about 50 you meet now will tell you that they find themselves sleeping less than formerly and are unable to account for it. Whenever one of them complains to me I know what his age is, no matter how young he may look. There is something in us that responds to reawakened nature when we reach the half century post in our journey through life, and all the drugs in the pharmacopoeia will not arrest the tendency to sleep no more after daylight comes. In the future, when a friend complains to you of his inability to snooze after 'glooms shiver off and lights creep in,' just tell him that he will find this habit fixed upon him for the remainder of his life, because it is a sure sign of advancing age."

The Candle Thief.

An odd experience befell Mr. Hunter during his return from a hunting trip to the settlement last fall. One evening he left a candle burning on the table in the Forty-nine Mile camp while he went out to the hovel to look after his horses. To his surprise when he returned to the camp the candle was not only extinguished but could nowhere be found. Mr. Hunter is not entirely free from the influence of those wild, weird legends peculiar to the backwoods of the Miramichi, especially those that relate to a fabulous monster known as "the Dunganon Hooper." He lit another candle, however, and again went out to attend to his team. When he came back to the camp he found that the second candle had vanished as mysteriously as the first. This was a severe blow to Mr. Hunter's peace of mind, but he pulled himself together and examined the camp thoroughly to see if some practical joker was not concealed about the premises. Finding no trace of anything in human form, he placed his third and last candle on the table, stood his ax within easy reach and awaited developments. In a few minutes a flying squirrel hopped in the door, boldly mounted the table and knocked over the candle, thus extinguishing the flame. He started for the door with his booty, when Mr. Hunter took a hand in it and put the little rascal to flight.—Fredericton (N. B.) Cor. Forest and Stream.

The Red Mark.

Listen to this thrilling anecdote of King Theebaw's household arrangements:

King Theebaw's palace at Mandalay has been turned into an "up to date" club. The audience chamber, with the golden throne in it, has been portioned out for lady members. All the walls are gold leafed, and golden pillars support the roof. Yet near the door is such a weird mark of former days that I think most of us would prefer the less magnificent surroundings of our own clubs without envy. It is the red mark of a murdered woman's hand.

Once the king, in the days of his prime, took a fancy to a beautiful young Mongolian and insisted on bringing her as an attendant to his court. His wife grew madly jealous, and with the fierce temper of her race stabbed the unfortunate girl in the audience chamber before the assembled court. As she fell her hand, covered with blood, clutched the wall, and for some reason or other no one has obliterated the mark.—New York Commercial.

It is estimated that about $70,000 worth of meat and $90,000 worth of bread are daily consumed in New York city, while for amusements the public spends not more than $30,000 per day at the theaters.

PEOPLE IN GENERAL.

The Rev. Henry Rupp, the oldest active clergyman in Illinois, now in his ninety-third year, is still strong and vigorous and preaches every Sunday.

The Rev. R. H. McKim (Episcopal) of Washington, who was rector of Holy Trinity Episcopal church, New York, a few years ago, may be elected assistant bishop of Virginia to succeed the late Bishop Newton.

Felix Gabriel Marchand, the new premier of Quebec, was honored by France with the title of "officer of public instruction" in 1881.

Low Rates.

Special reductions in fare over the Pennsylvania lines will be granted for numerous events to take place this summer in various parts of the United States, in addition to local excursions. Some of the points to which tickets will be sold and dates of sale are as follows:

To Nashville, Tenn., daily to October 15, for Tennessee Centennial and International exposition.

To Winona assembly grounds, Eagle Lake, (near Warsaw, Ind.) May 15 to August 31, for annual assembly and summer school.

To Celeron (Chautauqua Lake), July 11 and 12, account Photographers Association of America.

To Toronto, Canada, July 13, 14 and 15, for Epworth League National convention.

To Minneapolis, July 3 and 4, for national meeting, B. P. O. Elks.

To Chattanooga, July 13, 14 and 15, account Baptist Young Peoples' union, of America.

To Detroit, July 12 and 13, for National Republican League meeting.

To Cincinnati, July 21 and 22, for German Epworth League meeting.

To Indianapolis, August 17 and 18, for Young People's Christian union annual convention.

To Indianapolis, September 8 and 9, for National Encampment Sons of Veterans.

The reduced rates over the Pennsylvania lines will not be restricted to members of the organizations mentioned, but may be taken advantage of by the public generally. Excursion tickets may be obtained at ticket offices on the Pennsylvania system and will also be sold over this route by connecting railroads. Any Pennsylvania line ticket or passenger agent will furnish desired information concerning rates, time of trains, return limit, and other details, to all applicants, or the same may be obtained by addressing Samuel Moody, assistant general passenger agent, Pittsburg, Pa.

Cheap Rates to California.

Low rate tickets to San Francisco, Cal., will be sold via Pennsylvania lines, June 28, 29 and 30 and July 1, 2 and 3, account the Christian Endeavor convention. The rates will be exceedingly low, less than a single fare one way, affording opportunity for visiting the Pacific coast at the cheapest fare ever offered. Stop-overs and variable route privileges will permit of an enjoyable trip. Excursionists will have over a month in which to see the sights and visit friends, as the final return limit of tickets will be Aug. 15.

The very low rate is open to all, Christian Endeavorers, their friends and the public generally. The arrangements for these excursions make them the grandest chance for a delightfully interesting and instructive jaunt across the continent at small cost on tickets issued by the Standard Railway of America. That means a start over the most desirable route, with choice of lines west of the Mississippi river gateways, over which the Pennsylvania lines excursionists will receive all the comforts of a delightful journey. Consult the nearest ticket agent of these lines for particulars regarding rates, time of trains and other details. Inquiries on the subject will be promptly answered if addressed to J. K. Dillon, district passenger agent, Pittsburg, Pa.

Summer Outing.

The principal places of summer sojourn along the Atlantic ocean in the Alleghenies, the Adirondacks, Catskills, and mountains of the east, and in the lake region and Northern Michigan and the northwest, may be readily reached over the Pennsylvania lines.

Special information regarding the leading resorts and the advantages enjoyed in journeying to them over the Pennsylvania route has been compiled and printed in convenient form. The matter is profusely illustrated with photographic reproductions of seashore scenes and includes views at Atlantic City, Cape May, Long Branch and other resorts along the Atlantic coast; also of Cresson, Bedford Springs, and romantic mountain retreats, and of Petoskey, Mackinac, and the summer havens in Michigan and the northwest.

Persons contemplating summer outing trips will find it a valuable guide in shaping preliminaries. Copies may be obtained by addressing D. C. MacWaters, district passenger agent, Pittsburg, Pa.

Excursions to Toledo.

June 28 and 29 excursion tickets will be sold to Toledo via Pennsylvania lines for Ohio State Teachers' Association convention; return coupons valid Saturday, July 3, inclusive.

Excursions to Columbus.

June 28 and 29 excursion tickets at one fare for the round trip will be sold to Columbus for the Democratic state convention; return coupons valid Thursday, July 1, inclusive.

THE CUBAN QUESTION

Will Appear at the Republican Convention.

LIBRARIAN GALBREATH BUSY

The Columbus League, of Which He Is a Member, Will Endeavor to Have a Resolution Adopted—How It Touches State Politics.

Prof. Charles Galbreath, who is very well known to a great many people in this county and who now occupies the position of state librarian at Columbus, has created something of a sensation by saying that the Republican state convention will be called to act upon the Cuban question.

The Cuban league, of which Mr. Galbreath is a leading member, has a powerful influence in Columbus, and expects to make it felt at the convention. Without regard to partisan feeling it will likely ask the state gatherings of the two great parties to endorse the cause of Cuba. Mr. Galbreath voiced the sentiment of the league when he spoke to the reporter in these words:

"The action will not be taken in the interest of Senator Foraker. The league, as every person here knows, is a non-partisan organization. It is not interested in the promotion of political interests of any man or faction. The members of the league admired Senator Foraker's speech on the Cuban question and many of them wired or wrote their congratulations. Among those who did so were some of the leading Democrats of the city. The league was organized for the purpose of promoting the Cuban cause months before Foraker made his speech. Had he opposed the cause to which we are devoted we would have disapproved his course.

"The adoption of the resolution could not necessarily be construed as disapproval of Senator Hanna's attitude. Senator Hanna opposed the Morgan resolution because he considered it 'inopportune.' Calhoun has now returned and in the light of recent events Senator Hanna may now favor a Cuban resolution. If his friends in the convention vigorously opposed it, of course that would indicate that he is unfriendly to the Cuban cause. I certainly think the Democratic convention will pass a Cuban resolution."

THE PROPER MOVE.

The Officers Will Enforce the Law In Regard to Firecrackers.

The small boy who is caught setting off any fire works before the Fourth of July will be severely dealt with by the city authorities. There is an ordinance governing such action, and it is enforced. There is a salty penalty awaiting the first one caught in the future. This morning, on Fifth street, near Market, some boys almost caused a run-off by firing crackers. Stop it.

NOW READY.

The United States Engineer Corps to Leave the City.

The United States engineering corps, composed of 40 men, and the United States Steamer Edna will leave this evening or early in the morning for Phillips Island near Georgetown. Capt. R. R. Jones is in charge of the men. The boat will place two one mile marks on the Virginia shore opposite this city sometime next week, when it is on its way to Marrietta.

To the State Convention.

The following delegates left today for Toledo, where they will attend the session of the executive committee of the State Republican League: John S. Goodwin, W. L. Smith, John N. Taylor, B. C. Simms and Hal Barker. The session will last four days, and it is the intention of the delegates to nominate Governor Bushnell for another term.

Ice Cream Festival.

The young people of the West End chapel will give an ice cream and strawberry festival at Riverside park, Tuesday evening, June 22. You have a cordial invitation to be present. Proceeds for the Christian Endeavor society and the benefit of the chapel. The treat will be a nice one. Bring your lady friends.

Going West.

Next week James Ford and wife, of Fifth street, will leave for Redwing, Mo. Ill health is the cause of the journey and several months will be spent there by them.

—Mrs. A. Ulrich and family left Saturday night for a two months' visit in Cincinnati.

RAKED UP HIS LATIN.

And Succeeded In Unearthing Terms That Started The Waiter.

A western lawyer went into the Planter's cafe a few days ago. He had not always lived in the far west and in his college days in the east was well enough acquainted with the French bills of fare of swelled New York restaurants. But out in his new home he had forgotten a soup au pot gras and pomme de terre a la duchesse. The fact that he could not read some of the delicacies on the menu exasperated him, and he proceeded to have fun with the waiter.

"Nothing here that I'd care for," said he to the clerk hampered attendant.

"We can serve you anything for dinner, sir," said the waiter, confident that he could please his customer before he got through with him.

"Have you stine qua non?" The waiter stared.

"No-o-o, sir," he answered.

"What about bonmots? Have you any?"

"No, sir."

"Then let me have some nice ignis fatuus. That's good at this time of the year."

"We haven't got it."

"Bring me some tempus fugit then."

"That's out, too, sir."

"You must have a pluribus unum."

This time the waiter looked bright.

"I've heard them speak about it in the kitchen. I'll go and see."

He came back empty handed and dejected. "We haven't got it," he stammered.

"Strange that I can't get any of these seasonable things. Try once more and find out if they have pro bono publico."

"I'll call Mr. Weaver," said the waiter, almost crazy by this time.

"Perhaps he can tell what you want."

The guest from the west caught him by the coat tails.

"All right," said he, "and in the meantime bring me some roast beef and fried potatoes."

"We have it!" yelled the waiter in his delight at hearing of something that was obtainable, and he flew off to the kitchen and came back with the beef and potatoes and Landlord Weaver in the wake.

The attorney and the hotel man had a good laugh at the expense of the unfortunate waiter, who confided to the chef in the kitchen that he had struck a man who must have been eating at Delmonico's all his life.—St. Louis Republic.

PRAYING BICYCLES.

Japanese Attach Prayer Wheels to the Hubs of Their Machines.

The bicycle is now employed to aid the pious Buddhist in praying with greater ease, but yet, as he hopes, with great effect. It is from the ingenious and enterprising country of Japan that this new departure is reported. The Buddhist has always done his praying with the assistance of a wheel. The prayers are placed inside the wheel, which turns round, following the direction of the sun, and delivers up to heaven the prayers of the owner, or of all whose thoughts are fixed upon it. Some enormous wheels are capable of praying for thousands of people. This mode of worship may seem somewhat irresponsible to western people, but the Buddhist, who is a subtle reasoner, would be able to explain why it is satisfactory.

In various parts of the vast territory in which the Buddhist faith is held different motive powers are used in these prayer wheels. Some humble persons turn the wheel by hand, but not if they can help it. On the hills of Tibet, a great stronghold of pure Buddhism, the wheels are usually so built that the wind turns them. In other places they are moved by water power.

But it is obvious that wind must fail occasionally and that this may happen when the Buddhist is particularly in need of copious prayer. Water power, too, is often lacking.

So the ingenious Jap now attaches a small prayer wheel to the hub of his bicycle, and when he takes a ride he combines worship with recreation. By giving a glance at his pedometer he can tell just how much praying he has done. He can also keep an accurate tally record, which will enable him to tell after a number of years just how much prayer stands to his credit. In this way Buddhism seems to have given a zest to bicycling which no other religion can supply.—New York Journal.

An Ingenious Idea.

There is a certain genius in one of our western towns who will doubtless never lose any of his worldly possessions if it depends on his wit to retain them. His entry into the town and a subsequent method he employed to secure redress from a grocer who had outrageously imposed upon him by selling him a lot of sugar mixed with lime sufficiently testify to his ability in such matters. The impurity of the sugar was hardly perceptible at first, but when put into use it quickly showed its inferiority. The next day an advertisement appeared in the town paper that read somewhat as follows:

"Should the grocer who for his profits injudiciously mixed a pound of lime with a few pounds of sugar and lately sold it to a customer not send to that person at once the pound of sugar he cheated him of, his name shall be disclosed to the newspapers." To which advertisement he affixed his name and address.

The morning had hardly passed before a pound of sugar arrived, followed in quick succession by seven more, all from different sources, which plainly showed a distressing want of honesty among the grocers of the town.

It is not related whether the coffee, tea and various other articles were examined by the genius in hopes of a similar condition and a like reward, but the presumption is that no time was lost in ascertaining if such a possibility actually existed.—Harper's Round Table.

When a Man Is Fifty.

"A man's advancing age tells on him in no other way more unmistakably than in his habits of rising in the morning," remarked Colonel Peter Toliver of Philadelphia to a St. Louis Republic reporter. "I wake up every morning with the sun. Time was when I used to regard it as a hardship to be waked before 8 o'clock. That was when I was young. When I reached 50, I began to wake with the sun, and no matter how late I sat up the night before I found myself tired of sleeping beyond the hour of the sun's rising. Many men about 50 you meet now will tell you that they find themselves sleeping less than formerly and are unable to account for it. Whenever one of them complains to me I know what his age is, no matter how young he may look. There is something in us that responds to reawakened nature when we reach the half century post in our journey through life, and all the drugs in the pharmacopoeia will not arrest the tendency to sleep no more after daylight comes. In the future, when a friend complains to you of his inability to snooze after 'jousts shiver off and lights creep in,' just tell him that he will find this habit fixed upon him for the remainder of his life, because it is a sure sign of advancing age."

The Candle Thief.

An odd experience befell Mr. Hunter during his return from a hunting trip to the settlement last fall. One evening he left a candle burning on the table in the Forty-mile camp while he went out to the hovel to look after his horses. To his surprise when he returned to the camp the candle was not only extinguished but could nowhere be found. Mr. Hunter is not entirely free from the influence of those wild, weird legends peculiar to the backwoods of the Miramichi, especially those that relate to a fabulous monster known as "the Dangarvon Hooper." He lit another candle, however, and again went out to attend to his team. When he came back to the camp he found that the second candle had vanished as mysteriously as the first. This was a severe blow to Mr. Hunter's peace of mind, but he pulled himself together and examined the camp thoroughly to see if some practical joker was not concealed about the premises. Finding no trace of anything in human form, he placed his third and last candle on the table, stood his ax within easy reach and awaited developments. In a few minutes a flying squirrel hopped in the door, boldly mounted the table and knocked over the candle, thus extinguishing the flame. He started for the door with his booty, when Mr. Hunter took a hand in it and put the little rascal to flight.—Fredericton (N. B.) Cor. Forest and Stream.

The Red Mark.

Listen to this thrilling anecdote of King Theebaw's household arrangements:

King Theebaw's palace at Mandalay has been turned into an "up to date" club. The audience chamber, with the golden throne in it, has been portioned out for lady members. All the walls are gold leafed, and golden pillars support the roof. Yet near the door is such a weird mark of former days that I think most of us would prefer the less magnificent surroundings of our own clubs without envy. It is the red mark of a murdered woman's hand.

Once the king, in the days of his prime, took a fancy to a beautiful young Mongolian and insisted on bringing her as an attendant to his court. His wife grew madly jealous, and with the fierce temper of her race stabbed the unfortunate girl in the audience chamber before the assembled court. As she fell her hand, covered with blood, clutched the wall, and for some reason or other no one has obliterated the mark.—New York Commercial.

It is estimated that about $70,000 worth of meat and $90,000 worth of bread are daily consumed in New York city, while for amusements the public spends not more than $30,000 per day at the theaters.

PEOPLE IN GENERAL.

The Rev. Henry Rupp, the oldest active clergyman in Illinois, now in his ninety-third year, is still strong and vigorous and preaches every Sunday.

The Rev. R. H. McKim (Episcopal) of Washington, who was rector of Holy Trinity Episcopal church, New York, a few years ago, may be elected assistant bishop of Virginia to succeed the late Bishop Newton.

Felix Gabriel Marchand, the new premier of Quebec, was honored by France with the title of "officer of public instruction" in 1881.

Low Rates.

Special reductions in fare over the Pennsylvania lines will be granted for numerous events to take place this summer in various parts of the United States, in addition to local excursions. Some of the points to which tickets will be sold and dates of sale are as follows:

To Nashville, Tenn., daily to October 15, for Tennessee Centennial and International exposition.

To Winona assembly, Eagle Lake, (near Warsaw, Ind.) May 15 to August 31, for annual assembly and summer school.

To Celoron (Chautauqua Lake,) July 11 and 12, account Photographers Association of America.

To Toronto, Canada, July 13, 14 and 15, for Toronto League National convention.

To Minneapolis, July 3 and 4, for national meeting, B. P. O. Elks.

To Chattanooga, July 13, 14 and 15, account Baptist Young Peoples' union, of America.

To Detroit, July 12 and 13, for National Republican League meeting.

To Cincinnati, July 21 and 22, for German Epworth League meeting.

To Indianapolis, August 17 and 18, for Young People's Christian union annual convention.

To Indianapolis, September 8 and 9, for National Encampment Sons of Veterans.

The reduced rates over the Pennsylvania lines will not be restricted to members of the organizations mentioned, but may be taken advantage of by the public generally. Excursion tickets may be obtained at ticket offices on the Pennsylvania system and will also be sold over this route by connecting railways. Any Pennsylvania line ticket or passenger agent will furnish desired information concerning rates, time of trains, return limit, and other details, to all applicants, or the same may be obtained by addressing Samuel Moody, assistant general passenger agent, Pittsburg, Pa.

Cheap Rates to California.

Low rate tickets to San Francisco, Cal., will be sold via Pennsylvania lines, June 28, 29 and 30 and July 1, 2 and 3, account the Christian Endeavor convention. The rates will be exceedingly low, less than a single fare one way, affording opportunity for visiting the Pacific coast at the cheapest fare ever offered. Stop-overs and variable route privileges will permit of an enjoyable trip. Excursionists will have over a month in which to see the sights and visit friends, as the final return limit of tickets will be Aug. 15.

The very low rate is open to all, Christian Endeavorers, their friends and the public generally. The arrangements for these excursions make them the grandest chance for a delightfully interesting and instructive jaunt across the continent at small cost on tickets issued by the Standard Railway of America. That means a start over the most desirable route, with choice of lines west of the Mississippi river gateways, over which the Pennsylvania lines excursionists will receive all the comforts of a delightful journey. Consult the nearest ticket agent of these lines for particulars regarding rates, time of trains and other details. Inquiries on the subject will be promptly answered if addressed to J. K. Dillon, district passenger agent, Pittsburg, Pa.

Summer Outing.

The principal places of summer sojourn along the Atlantic ocean in the Alleghenies, the Adirondacks, Catskills, and mountains of the east, and in the lake region and Northern Michigan and the northwest, may be readily reached over the Pennsylvania lines.

Special information regarding the leading resorts and the advantages enjoyed in journeying to them over the Pennsylvania route has been compiled and printed in convenient form. The matter is profusely illustrated with photographic reproductions of seashore scenes and includes views at Atlantic City, Cape May, Long Branch and other resorts along the Atlantic coast; also of Cresson, Bedford Springs, and romantic mountain retreats, and of Potosi, Mackinac, and the summer havens in Michigan and the northwest.

Persons contemplating summer outing trips will find it a valuable guide in shaping preliminaries. Copies may be obtained by addressing D. C. MacWaters, district passenger agent, Pittsburg, Pa.

Excursions to Toledo.

June 28 and 29 excursion tickets will be sold to Toledo via Pennsylvania lines for Ohio State Teachers' Association convention; return coupons valid Saturday, July 3, inclusive.

Excursions to Columbus.

June 28 and 29 excursion tickets at one fare for the round trip will be sold to Columbus for the Democratic state convention; return coupons valid Thursday, July 1, inclusive.

OFFICE OF CITY CLERK.

EAST LIVERPOOL, Ohio, May 29, 1897.

SEALED PROPOSALS will be received at this office until Wednesday, the 30th day of June, 1897, at 12 o'clock noon, for the purchase of 24 refunding bonds of the city of East Liverpool, Ohio, bearing date the 24th day of May, 1897, and payable after 20 years and within 40 years from the said date, each bond being for the sum of $1,000, and bearing interest at the rate of four per centum per annum, payable semi-annually.

Said bonds are issued for the purpose of refunding water bonds of said city to the amount of $24,000, due May 24th, 1897, and in pursuance of an ordinance entitled "An Ordinance No. 315, to provide for issuing bonds of the City of East Liverpool, Ohio, for the purpose of extending the time of payment of certain indebtedness. Water Works bonds, which, from its limits of taxation, said city is unable to pay at maturity," passed the 25th day of May, 1897, authorizing their issue.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check on some National Bank, in the sum of Five Hundred ($500.00) Dollars, payable to the order of the Clerk of said city as a guarantee that if the bid is accepted the bonds will be promptly paid for when delivered.

The bonds will not be sold for less than their par value, and the right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

A Story of a Manuscript.

A story is told of a certain southern author who had a manuscript accepted by a northern periodical that only pays on publication, but he has never had the pleasure of seeing his production in print. Finally he went north, and, getting hard up, called on the editor, who would neither return his manuscript nor guarantee him a day of publication. He repaired to his hotel and wrote the editor a threatening letter, in which he mentioned pistols and coffee, etc. Shortly after he was arrested and taken to the station house, where he remained all night. The next morning he sent the following message to the editor:

"I didn't know the rules up here. For heaven's sake, come down and pay my fine and take the manuscript as security."

The editor was unmoved by this appeal and replied briefly:

"We cannot violate the rules of our office. We will pay your fine when we publish your story. We wish you well."

A Story of a Manuscript.

A story is told of a certain southern author who had a manuscript accepted by a northern periodical that only pays on publication, but he has never had the pleasure of seeing his production in print. Finally he went north, and, getting hard up, called on the editor, who would neither return his manuscript nor guarantee him a day of publication. He repaired to his hotel and wrote the editor a threatening letter, in which he mentioned pistols and coffee, etc. Shortly after he was arrested and taken to the station house, where he remained all night. The next morning he sent the following message to the editor:

"I didn't know the rules up here. For heaven's sake, come down and pay my fine and take the manuscript as security."

The editor was unmoved by this appeal and replied briefly:

"We cannot violate the rules of our office. We will pay your fine when we publish your story. We wish you well." —Atlanta Constitution.
